Sheriff Asks Troops to Evict 'Sit-Down' Strikers

VISITS HEAD OF MILITIA IN FLINT

BULLETIN

Flint, Mich., Feb. 5 (INS)—Flint military authorities were told this afternoon to hold everything in abeyance because a "satisfactory settlement of the strike was expected to be made in Detroit within an hour."

Flint, Mich., Feb. 5 (INS) — Sheriff Thomas Wolcott today appealed to Governor Frank Murphy for the state militia after General Motors obtained a court order calling for eviction of more than 1000 sit-down strikers here.

The sit-downers, who defied an evacuation injunction, have declared they were ready to die if force was used in an effort to clear the two Fisher body plants they occupy.

The sheriff telegraphed Governor Murphy at the peace conference in Detroit immediately after the court signed a writ of attachment. He asked for National Guardsmen stationed here to help make the arrests.

He also asked the governor to order a closed military zone around Fisher Body No. 1, similar to the one now maintained at the No. 2 plants.

CONFERS WITH TROOP HEAD

While awaiting a reply from the governor, Sheriff Wolcott went into conference with Colonel Joseph Lewis, commander of the 4000 National Guardsmen on strike duty here.

General Motors attorneys obtained the writ of attachment after showing Judge Paul V. Gadola sit-downers and union leaders had not complied with the evacuation injunction.

Two GM attorneys, Roy Brownell and Ralph Gault, appeared unexpectedly before Judge Gadola for

Unionized Baseball Worries Frick

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Ford Frick, President of the National League, viewed with concern a published report that John L. Lewis might attempt to organize a baseball players' union as club owners went into their annual schedule meeting today.

Displaying a clipping from a magazine (Collyer's Eye), Frick, talking with Bill Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said:

"You fellows probably think this is a big joke, but Lewis really may try to organize the players into a union."

Wally Weds Edward on April 27

Vienna, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor plans to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson on April 27 at either the Enzesfeld Castle of Baron Eugene Rothschild or in Vienna, a usually reliable source disclosed today.

This is the exact date on which Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson supposedly will become final.

The former British monarch wants his fiancee to arrive in Vienna April 24, three days before the proposed date for the wedding.

The informant added the wedding probably would take place at Enzesfeld because the expenses there

HURLEY ORDERS HOSPITAL QUIZ

Stirred by charges of "shameful conditions" at Boston State Hospital in Mattapan, Governor Hurley today summoned the hospital superintendent, the trustees and the state commissioner of mental diseases to appear before him next Monday.

At the same time, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, also moved by the charges made over the signature of Dr. Harold L. Norton, new superintendent, filed an order for a legislative investigation.

The investigation committee would consist of three members of the House, and two of the Senate, and would have all powers to summon witnesses and records.

Representative Sawyer's investigation would cover all institutions

3-ALARM FIRE IN DOWNTOWN BUILDING

An explosion of chemicals, caused by sparks from a workman's pipe, sent flames leaping through the four-story building at 235 Congress street, in the heart of downtown Boston, today.

Three alarms were sounded as the fire, fed by chemicals, destroyed valuable equipment and burst through the roof.

Thirty-five employes of the Donovan and Sullivan Engraving Co., occupants of the structure, barely got out over a fire escape with flames darting past them.

Several of the employes were burned, including Richard J. Alcock, who said his pipe started the blaze.

Alcock tried to beat out the flaming silver nitrate with his hands and was the most seriously burned.

One fireman was overcome by smoke and two were cut by falling glass.

Three aerial ladders were flung up and firemen mounted them to halt the flames at the roof, before the fire leaped to other structures.

Tongues of fire, intensely hot from the blazing chemicals, forked out at them from the windows. One fire-fighter escaped by sliding down the guard rope to the street, four stories below.

FIREMAN OVERCOME

Hub Plane Jumps Runway, 7 Unhurt

Portland, Feb. 5—Five passengers, a pilot and co-pilot escaped injury at the airport here today when a plane of the Boston & Maine Airways slid off the runway into rough ground.

The plane, bound from Boston to Bangor, was taxiing to the passenger station after landing here when the accident occurred. Brake trouble was given as the cause.

On the plane were W. B. Elliott and Roger Snow, bound for this city; and G. F. Underhay, N. C. Peckett and H. M. Lester, on their way to Bangor.

Illinois Boy, 6, Victim of Fiend

Chicago, Feb. 5 (INS)—Victim of a fiend who attacked and strangled him, Roger Loomis, 6, an only son, was found dead today outside suburban Lombard, Ill.

The child had been garotted with a rag about the neck. A manhunt spread for the slayer within a short time after the body was found.

This spectacular picture of today's downtown three-alarm fire at Congress and Purchase streets shows firemen in a thrilling fight with the flames amid billows of smoke. One fire-fighter is scrambling up an aerial ladder, while a high-pressure stream is pouring four stories into the air to halt the quick rush of the flames. The fire started from an explosion in an engraving plant and was fed by chemicals. Employes, some of them burned, barely got out over a fire escape.

Gas Blast Rocks Flooded Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 5 (INS)—A terrific gas explosion rocked this flood-beleaguered city today, destroying the Bollinger-Hancock Coffee Company building at a loss estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000.

The blast hurled the entire roof of the four-story structure into the air and shattered windows for blocks around. Leaping flames which followed in its wake gutted what remained of the building.

ROOSEVELT FACES FIGHT ON JUDGES

BULLETIN

New York, Feb. 5 (INS)—A heavy selling wave in which losses ran to more than $2 a share in steels, motors and coppers with the high-speed ticker five minutes behind was Wall Street's reaction to President Roosevelt's surprise message to Congress today.

U. S. Steel common lost over $2, then rallied, while Bethlehem Steel was down early $3. Chrysler and General Motors dropped $2 each before meeting support.

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt today asked Congress to reorganize federal court machinery in a surprise message proposing more justices for the Supreme Court.

The unexpected request, embracing also plans for speeding Supreme Court decisions on constitutional questions, plunged capitol hill into a furore of controversy, which split party ranks.

Drawing major attention in the chief executive's request was the provision of adrafted bill accompanying the message which would give the President power to increase the Supreme Court by a maximum of six justices to a total membership of 15 unless justices over 70 voluntarily retire.

The nine justices now on the high court have ruled against New Deal legislation 11 times to five favorable decisions. Enactment of the President's plan would put six of the nine in the retirement class—or else six justices could be added to the court.

NO ISSUE OF LAW

"These proposals do not raise any issue of constitutional law," Roosevelt's message said and added:

"If these measures achieve their aim, we may be relieved of the necessity of considering any fundamental changes in the powers of the courts or the Constitution of our government—changes which involve consequences so far reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course."

G. O. P. Flays Plan, Democrats Praise It

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The President's proposal today regarding the Supreme Court and other federal courts created an unparalleled stir in Congress.

But some Democrats and Republicans quickly assailed the proposal.

Senator Vandenberg (R.), Michigan, spokesman for the minority, said:

"I am opposed to tampering with the Supreme Court directly or indirectly and particularly to any scheme for pjacking it."

Senator King of Utah, a high ranking Democratic member of the judiciary committee which will consider the President's program, quickly announced he was "opposed to it."

"I don't approve of the plan at all," King said. "Because decisions may not suit us, I see no reason for changing the court and abandoning a judicial system given us by the Constitution."

Representative Rayburn (D.), Texas, House majority leader:

"I think it furnishes a wonderful basis for simplification of legislative procedure and for expedition of the business of the courts and of litigants."

Senator Borah (R.) Idaho:

Senator Hitchcock, (D.) South Dakota:

"I think he's on the right track."

Chairman Ashurst (D.) Arizona, of the Senate judiciary committee, to which the presidential program was referred:

"President Taft urged this many years ago."

REDS SHIFT IN SENTIMENT AS DICTATOR FIGHTS ON

By PIERRE J. HUSS

Berlin, Feb. 5 (INS)—Reports of an "open revolt" against Dictator Josef Stalin in Moscow, of famine spreading over wide areas of Russia, and of personal feuds threatening the entire Soviet regime were featured sensationally in the Berlin press today.

Some of the reports were carried in dispatches direct from Moscow, others reached Berlin by the familiar anti-Soviet round-about routes through Warsaw and Riga.

All were not taken at their face value, but the sudden flood of reports and rumors of grave trouble in Moscow caused observers here to ponder them carefully.

STUDENTS IN MEETING

The bitterly anti-Bolshevist Nazi press made the most of the situation. Following is a summary of the various reports of the situation in Russia as presented to the German public:

1—"Open revolt" against Stalin broke out, according to the Nazi organ Der Angriff, after students held a secret mass meeting in a Moscow hall, and then paraded through the streets shouting "down with Stalin." They attempted to incite workers against the Stalin regime, and were fired upon by GPU troops, 8 falling dead and 40 wounded, the paper said.

2—Warsaw reports said Stalin and War Commissar Clementi Voroshilov were fighting a bitter personal battle for power, Stalin having refused the increasingly-popular army chief a share of the rulership of Russia. The two men were reported heading toward a show-down, with Voroshilov's supporters growing in numbers daily.

SUSPENDS 22 OFFICERS

3—The newspaper Tageblatt, citing "private sources in Warsaw," said three days ago Stalin, Voroshilov, and G. P. U. Leader Jeschow held a long conference in Leningrad at which Stalin ordered a big "solidarity parade" to convince the public no quarrel exists in the Soviet leadership. Voroshilov was said to have suspended 22 high officers of the Leningrad garrison, most of whom were former leaders of the Czarist army.

4—Several Berlin newspapers reprinted extracts from Russian newspapers in Paris suggesting a "Stalin Purge" as a result of fears of economic rapprochement between Germany, France and Russia under guidance of Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov and possibly the exiled arch-foe of Stalin, Leon Trotski. Object of the alleged Litvinov-Trotsky maneuvers was said to be removal of Stalin.

5—Warsaw reports emphasized "increasing of tension" between Stalin and Litvinov because of the reported "Trotskyist sympathies" of Litvinov's English-born wife. Mme. Litvinov's reported arrest has been denied, and it has been denied also that she is a "Trotskyist."

GROUPS UNCOVERED

6. The German official News Agency under a Moscow dateline lists the names of numerous industrialists and politicians against whom an alleged "clean-up" is being directed. "Terror Groups" allegedly have been uncovered in Moscow, Leningrad and in the Ukraine.

7. Warsaw dispatches said a famine of "extraordinary proportions" is devastating several sections of Russia, and that "millions" in the Kursk, Tambov, Voroneg, Ural Mountains, and Kazakstan districts face starvation, causing a "wholesale exodus" from the villages to the cities.

Farmers in the famine districts were reported killing their livestock recklessly because of the lack of bread. In most sections of the Bashkeir reublic "famine is certain," according to one report, because of lack of agricultural products.

The food situation, according to Warsaw, grows worse daily at Saratov and Stalingrad. A potato shortage in the Ukraine has resulted in railroad stations being swamped with dishevelled, barefoot, ragged peasants trying to get to the cities, the reports said.

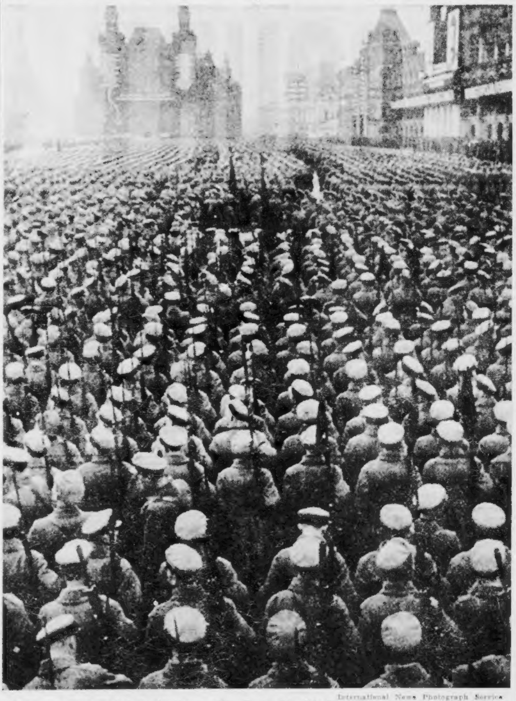
8—The famine and other hardships, said featured Warsaw dispatches, are contributing to a "dangerous internal state" in Russia which is likely to have a bloody blow-off at any moment.

Der Angriff featured the "open revolt" in Moscow and the fatal gunfire poured upon the reported anti-Stalin demonstrators.

DEADLY CENSORSHIP

Moscow's deadly censorship made it impossible to establish the true nature of the situation. Latest Warsaw dispatches charged unrest in the Red army is so widespread that to date 1200 officers of all ranks are facing military tribunals following discovery of a conspiracy which resulted from trial and execution of two officers for counter-revolutionary activities.

Where Red Army Revolt Started



International News Photograph Service

"The greatest armed force in the world"—Soviet Russia's Red army—gives some idea of its strength as it mobilizes in Red square, Moscow. Since the recent treason trial that sent 13 former officials to death before the firing squad and four to prison, revolt against Dictator Stalin has flared. The army's chief, War Minister Voroshilov, has protested GPU spying on army officers and has warned Stalin. Meanwhile Red troops cheer Voroshilov. It was here that the revolt gained its first strength.

Gov. Hurley to Probe Mattapan Hospital Charges

coming under control of the Department of Mental Diseases.

SEEKS ALL FACTS

Dr. Norton, who succeeded Dr. James V. May, whom former Governor Curley forced to retire on a pension, made his sensational report to Governor Hurley, charging that the trustees wished to get rid of him and stifle the report.

Shortly before noon today, Governor Hurley said in comment:

"At the Boston State Hospital there has been called to my attention certain conditions, of which I have directed the commissioner of mental diseases to make a thorough investigation and report to me.

"I am deeply concerned in the care and treatment of the patients in all state institutions and I am cognizant of the vast sum of money spent for the buildings and their care and maintenance, for the mentally sick.

"However, I shall this day direct the commissioner of mental diseases, the board of trustees and the superintendent of the Boston State Hospital to report to me next Monday at 2:30 p. m.—that I may hear the facts direct.

PLANS WIDE PROBE

"I shall, without delay, investigate conditions, and upon the facts determine my case. My chief concern is the proper care of the patients. If our system of care of the mentally sick is defective, then I believe that this ought to be corrected without delay.

"I know of no service within the Commonwealth that should be of higher standing than that of the care of our mentally sick. They cannot care for themselves and I am determined to correct any abuses or maladministration in the Boston State Hospital or any other state institution."

CHARGES DRINKING PARTIES

The new superintendent charged, among other things, that drinking parties of the wildest sort have been held in the male attendants' building and attended by women.

Nurses and women attendants, arriving home at night, have found men in their bedrooms and closets.

Rats, cats and vermin overrun the hospital, the rats and cats being so wild and vicious that sometimes they attack patients.

Garbage and discarded mattresses were piled in the rear of two buildings, giving off battlefield stenches.

Fire hose was rotten and safety catches on elevators remained out of order for months.

All these charges and more were in his report, Dr. Norton declared, when the move began to force him out and suppress the report.

In his report Dr. Norton has asked that State Auditor Buckley make a complete audit of the hospital's books.

The report charges that shortage of linen, towels, bed-gowns and other necessary articles is "worse than Governor Curley said," following his sudden tour of inspection there.

In one building alone there were no towels or bed linen for 60 aged women patients.

Another charge made is that while patients and attendants were skimped on food and were "literally starving," fake menus were sent to the State House to conceal this fact.

BACK UP REPORT

Miss Mary Alice McMahon, superintendent of nurses for 18 years; Mrs. Mary J. Shea, assistant superintendent of nurses for the same length of time; Hector Noel, male supervisor; Mrs. Alice Cushing, matron, and Mrs. Helen H. AuClair, dietician, are among those who have backed up Dr. Norton's scathing report with observations of their own, it is revealed.

When the then Dr. Wilfred Overholser visited the hospital to investigate the reported conditions, Dr. Margaret R. Simpson, member of the medical staff, who also backs up Superintendent Norton, was prevented from answering questions of the governor, she charges.

Trustees of the hospital held a secret meeting and voted to oust him, Dr. Norton asserted.

"That was a move," he said, "to prevent me from exposing the whole shameful situation.

"I'm going to fight for my job because I feel it's my duty to correct these terrible conditions."

"MAN BEHIND THRONE"

Each time Dr. Overholser propounded a question to Dr. Simpson, she said, S. Henry Franks, steward, described as "the man behind the throne during Dr. May's administration," would interrupt and the point of the question would be lost before it could be answered.

According to Dr. Norton's charges, men patients could not change underclothing from September until December, because they had but one set.

Lacking towels, when they bathed they were compelled to dry themselves with their coats or other clothing. In one ward, where, "fortunately," there was a bedsheet, five men dried themselves on this and then returned it to the bed.

Sole occupant of a vacant house in Williams street, Jamaica Plain, for the past week, a tiger cat was in the custody of the Animal Rescue League today. Agent Albert Morris finally coaxed the solitary occupant from its hiding place after failing in two previous efforts.

LEVEES SAVE VALLEY; RUSH RELIEF BILL

By the Associated Press

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 5—A battered but unyielding levee line repulsed the Mississippi's greatest crests today while rehabilitation, control and relief problems engaged the flood-scourged Ohio valley and the nation's Congress.

Army engineers maintained a force of 120,000 river fighters along the defenses to keep the country's worst flood from multiplying its cruel toll of 381 dead, nearly 1,000,000 homeless and $550,000,000 in property loss.

The Mississippi was receding slowly in the Cairo, Ill., sector today, and, barring storms to send the muddy water smashing against improvised dikes, engineers considered the battle won, but promised a ceaseless watch for days or perhaps weeks to come.

President Roosevelt's $5,011,000,000 Public Works program to curb raiding rivers lay before a Congress receptive to flood control plans. The proposal calls for a plan of water control for the Ohio and Mississippi in combination with a six-year program of public works.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, "daddy" of the Tennessee Valley Authority act, offered a proposal to handle the flood problem by creating "enough TVA's to cover the entire country."

"Such a program," he continued, "would mean the maximum navigation development, the maximum flood control, the maximum reforestation, the maximum correction of soil erosion and the maximum amount of power."

Along the Ohio the hardest hit towns emerged further from flood waters and began thinking in terms of reconstruction.

Cincinnati reported a shopping "boom" reminiscent of holiday trade as stores reopened to meet buyers' long-denied needs.

The Ohio overflow continued to retreat from Louisville at the rate of three feet a day, leaving the city with an acute housing problem which Mayor Neville Miller planned to discuss with Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, en route there with the federal flood relief commission.

In Evansville, Ind., yesterday, Hopkins promised southern Indiana and other Ohio Valley sectors plenty of WPA employment for emergency rehabilitation.

Louisville Dead Estimated at 1400

Worcester, Feb. 5—An estimate that the Louisville flood dead will reach 1400 was made by Sergeant John J. McDonald, in a letter received here today from the stricken city.

Sergeant McDonald, one of the rescue detail sent from this city, declared that "700 is a conservative figure and that it will probably be twice that number once the river drops enough to allow now submerged houses to be searched."

Revere Man Fights Arson Charge

Still on crutches from injuries he claimed he suffered as a result of having been hit by an automobile, Harry Salans, 45, of Dehon street, Revere, was his own attorney today as he faced charges in Roxbury court of burning a building.

The fire, which authorities claim was incendiary, destroyed the Wellworth Market in Washington street, Roxbury, last August and caused estimated damage of $75,000.

Dr. Louis Reese, night superintendent of Boston City Hospital, who treated Salans on the day of the fire, said that his injuries—a strained back and two broken legs—were consistent with a fall from a height.

Salans, cross-examining, asked the doctor if they were not also consistent with auto injuries. Dr. Reese said they might be.

Melrose Without Water 3 Hours

Melrose was without water today for nearly three hours when the large main supplying the city's pipes burst at a point in the woodland near Fellsway East.

Because the same thing had happened two years ago, the city had installed an emergency auxiliary system, but it was almost two hours before the break was discovered and another hour before the pipes were filled again.

EDWARD TO WED WALLY IN APRIL

He emphasized, however, that these current plans are subject to change—particularly after the Duke confers with his sister, the Countess of Harewood (the Princess Royal) who will arrive in Vienna Sunday.

(The Countess left Leeds today for London on her way to visit her brother. She will be the first member of the royal family to see the former ruler since his abdication last December.)

The princess royal and the Duke will discuss the wedding plans.

It also was learned the Duke had expressed a desire to move from the castle to an inexpensive Alpine hotel. But he was dissuaded by his royal relatives, who cautioned him against bringing any publicity upon himself.

As "master of the castle" in the absence of his host and hostess, the Baron and Baroness Rothschild, the Duke is obligated to pay the wages of the domestic staff for several months, today's informant stated.

Move in Parliament To Block Wally's Bridal

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—Informed sources said today individual members of Parliament are attempting to prevent the marriage of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson by marshaling opposition to a proposed $250,000 annual allowance to former King Edward.

One observer described the members' attitude this way:

"If the Duke holds to his decision to wed the American woman, for love of whom he renounced the throne, he must support her from his own funds without help from the British treasury."

The opposition has grown to a point, it was said, where the government is believed unable, at present, to carry out its plan for an annual civil grant of 25,000 pounds for Edward.

Hunger All Gone

Hurley Attends 4 Banquets in Day

B' JAMES F. DOOLING

So Governor Hurley said to his secretarial staff today:

"Please do not arrange my schedule so that I will have to eat at four banquets again—all in the one night."

And that was all he said, because the governor did not wish to rub it in. But everyone who had been in on the secret that there were four banquets scheduled for the night of February 4th looked very guilty and abashed.

Those who had accompanied the governor in his travels—and who had skipped the victuals at each heaped board—looked especially guilty.

ALL PROUD

In their hearts they were all proud. They were proud that the chief executive had managed to do justice to all four meals, starting as he did with the handicap of a full dinner at home.

For those who are not acquainted with the gubernatorial schedule, it may be said that it is customary for governors and other traveling dignitaries to speak at banquets but not to eat at them unless requested.

The catch in the program of February 4 was that Governor Hurley was requested to break bread with each of the four groups totaling more than [illegible] persons.

Furthermore, each bread-breaking was arranged individually.

It wasn't until yesterday afternoon, when he was catching a trout for his Friday dinner at the Sportsman Show, that the governor fully realized the gigantic task which confronted him.

A LONG SPEECH

A secretary reminded:

"Governor, the real estate board expects you to dine with their 800 members at the Boston Chamber of Commerce; the 300 guests who are attending the banquet to Lieutenant-Colonel Edgar V. Arcand of your staff expect you to dine with them; the president of the Senate, Samuel H. Wragg, has something like 500 persons gathering at the Copley-Plaza, and they expect you to dine with them.

"Furthermore—and you can't neglect this—your home-town boys of the Boston College Club of Cambridge are having a banquet at the Hotel Continental. And they expect you to dine with them."

"Ha, ha," remarked the governor, "of course nobody expects me to dine with all of them. That's impossible."

"But," said the secretary, "we promised."

"We promised?" the governor retorted. "We promised?"

"Yes, Your Excellency, we promised."

COMES THE HUDDLE

There was a huddle after that, but none of the chefs at the various affairs knew anything about the huddle.

When the governor ate his usual dinner at home before starting on his travels, he was relying on the huddle system.

But when he arrived at the Chamber of Commerce and a nice steaming dish of roast beef was placed before him, the governor looked around for the signal-caller.

Only an expectant looking headwaiter was there.

"The chef," he said, "took great pains to save this slice for the governor."

And the governor couldn't bear to hurt anybody's feelings, so he ate.

It was practically the same at the Somerset Hotel, only this time the waiter produced a plate of filet mignon and accompaniments.

On the way to the Copley-Plaza for the senatorial banquet, he looked about again for the secretary who had arranged that he shouldn't have to eat.

And at the Copley-Plaza, he had chicken.

"At least," said the governor mournfully, "it's a change from beef."

The climax came in Cambridge. Everyone had finished eating when the governor arrived.

And just as he sat down, the headwaiter brought a nice broiled tenderloin steak.

"Oh, well," the governor sighed. "Oh, well."

But this morning he reminded his secretaries not to arrange his schedule again so that he would have to attend four banquets all in one night.

And everyone looked guilty and promised. They promised he wouldn't have to eat at all of them, anyhow.

Governor's Two-Fisted Diet: 5 Dinners a Day

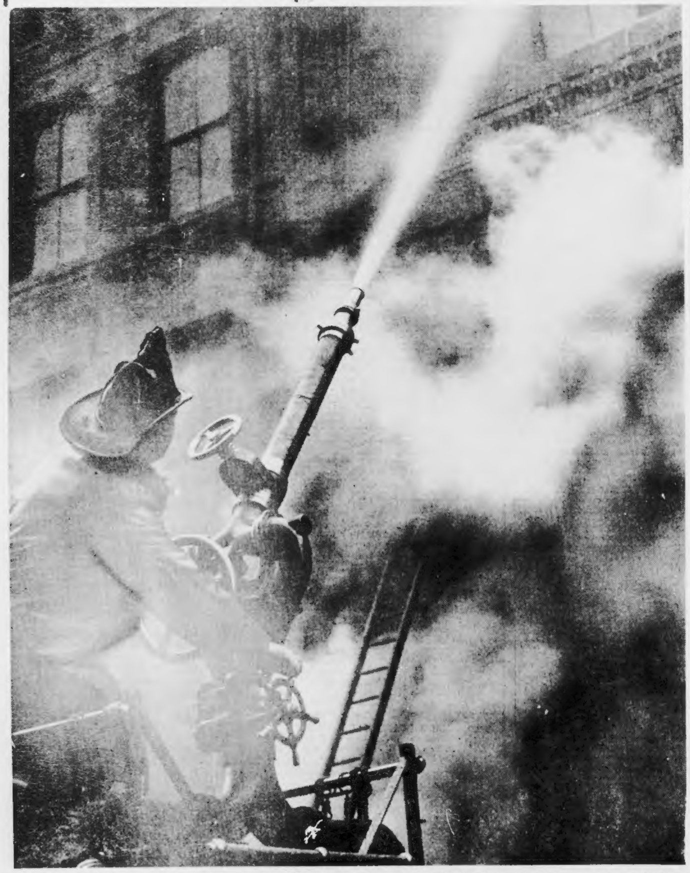
Governor Hurley "can take it." He dined well at home yesterday. Then to the Chamber of Commerce, where the Real Estate Board feasted him well.

AT THE SOMERSET, however, it was a bit of a strain to face another entree of beef, but the governor tackled the filet mignon, anyhow. Sampling, he found it so tasty he went the full route, in testimonial to the chef's conniving against a lagging appetite. For all of the flavor, all is not well now.

SWEARING OFF BEEF, Governor Hurley is confronted with chicken at the Copley-Plaza dinner honoring State Senator Samuel H. Wragg—and so he dips a flagging knife and fork.

SO BY THE TIME the governor reaches Cambridge to greet his townsmen and fellow alumni of Boston College, convened at Hotel Continental, he finds it hard to do justice to the hostelry's best tenderloin . . . After all . . .

Firemen's Big Bertha in Action



Study of a man fighting a city's worst enemy—fire. This rare photograph of a member of a high-pressure crew shows him raising the gun toward the fourth-floor level to drown out a blaze, so intensely hot, on Congress street today, that in-fighting was impossible. The battering stream can be seen shooting from the nozzle, its terrific force aiding the photographer by dispelling the smoke as the expanding bore of water leaps on its prey. BATTLE 3-ALARM CONGRESS ST. FIRE

Estimates of the property loss varied, with Fire Chief Samuel Pope placing it at $25,000. John J. Mullaney, president of the engraving company, said his destroyed equipment and supplies were worth $60,000.

All the employes of the plant, who were at work in overalls, lost their street suits and overcoats.

CAUSED BY PIPE SPARK

"I was working in a dark room, with dry silver nitrate on a table, when sparks fell out of my pipe," said Alcock.

"The stuff flared up in an instant. I tried to beat out the fire with my hands, but the flames shot in all directions.

"I never heard of that stuff exploding before, but it certainly did this time."

"The whole building seemed to burst into flames at once," he said. "The men fled by the fire escape in the rear, down into a back alley and out to the street through another building.

"Alcock was badly burned and I thought several others were, too."

Starting on the second floor, the flames shot up an elevator well to the fourth, missing the third floor, which was saved by fire doors. Some of the most expensive equipment thus escaped destruction.

USE GAS MASKS

Twenty-four pieces of apparatus clogged the intersection of Congress and Purchase streets after the sounding of the three quick alarms.

In the next building, firemen said, are tanning oils in storage. There are also several paint concerns in the vicinity.

As they began to win their battle, the firemen penetrated the interior wearing gas masks and risking injury from further explosions.

Tons of water were poured into the building to prevent another outbreak.

Showers of glass fell repeatedly as hot air exploded inside the structure. One shower narrowly missed fire department officials and a group of newspapermen.

Another three-alarm fire, in Roxbury, and a blaze in Dorchester, drove out four families earlier today. One fireman was injured and the combined loss was estimated at $11,000.

The Roxbury fire was in a four-story brick apartment house at Seaver street and Humboldt avenue, a thickly settled residential district.

Driven to the street, scantily clad, as roaring flames spread rapidly from the first floor to the roof, were five adults, eight girls, including five sisters and two small children.

Fire Chief Samuel J. Pope said the blaze was of suspicious origin and turned over two cans which had apparently contained oil to the arson squad.

Firemen fought successfully to keep the fire away from the Roxbury Young Men's Hebrew Association building, next door to the burning structure, and where the fleeing occupants took refuge.

In battling the blaze on the third and fourth floors, which were unoccupied, firemen were imperilled by flying sparks and falling embers when the roof collapsed. No one was injured, however.

The fire was of undetermined origin and damage was estimated at $10,000.

John Anderson of Walnut street, Everett, a milkman, discovered the blaze. He saw smoke coming out of an upper window and broke a door down to gain entrance.

Those who were driven out were Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Levine, Rebecca Levine, 7; Doris Levine, 6; Mrs. Priscilla Waters, Mary Waters, 9; Julia Waters, 20; Mrs. Fannie Saroka, Olga Saroka, 20; Mrs. Belle Cooper and her five daughters, Rosamond, Dorothy, Evelyn, Sylvia and Charlotte Cooper.

Mexican Reds Rap Trotsky's U. S. Aide

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Mexican Communist Party demanded today the expulsion from Mexico of Bernhard Wolff, American, who arrived last week to serve as secretary to Leon Trotsky.

In a manifesto signed by the party's secretary, Hernan Laborde, the government was also urged to be certain Trotsky "abides by his promise" not to carry on political activity during his exile in Mexico.

Night Clubs Ask Extra Liquor Hour

Night club owners and entertainers appeared before the legislative committee on legal affairs in support of a measure to extend the closing hour for serving liquor from 1 a. m. to 2 a. m., asserting this would force "speakeasies" out of business.

ENVOY'S 'HEIL, HITLERS' STIR KING GEORGE'S IRE

London, Feb. 5 (INS)—Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, was deep in the diplomatic doghouse today for shocking foreign dignitaries and stunning King George speechless with a couple of brisk Nazi salutes and reverberating "Heil, Hitlers!" in the throne room of Buckingham Palace.

King George was taken aback at Von Ribbentrop's behavior, but controlled himself until after the diplomatic reception, when he reportedly commented unfavorably to his courtiers.

Only on source came to the Nazi envoy's aid, pointing out that Von Ribbentrop had as much right to salute the King in the manner of his own country as did the eastern ambassador who once greeted Queen Victoria by knocking his head twice on the floor.

The throne room affair lent weight to the News-Chronicle's front-page splash saying Von Ribbentrop is no longer persona grata with the majority of Britain's cabinet ministers, because "his propagandist activities are not consonant with the usual practices

Choreman Killed At Cabot Home

Thomas Muray, 60-year-old choreman for Mrs. William B. Cabot of Marlborough street, Back Bay, was killed today when he plunged from a fourth floor window of the Cabot house.

Police said that Muray was washing rear windows when he lost his grip on the edge and dropped into an alley below, near Charlesgate East.

Other servants heard his screams as he fell and raced to help him. He was taken to Boston City Hospital where he was pronounced dead. His home was in Cumberland street, Back Bay.

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT DEMAND FOR SUPREME COURT

HIGH TRIBUNAL OVERWORKED, CAN'T HEAR ALL APPEALS

I have recently called the attention of the Congress to the clear need for a comprehensive program to reorganize the administrative machinery of the executive branch of our government. I now make a similar recommendation to the Congress in regard to the judicial branch of the government, in order that it also may function in accord with modern necessities.

The Constitution provides that the President "shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." No one else is given a similar mandate. It is therefore the duty of the President to advise the Congress in regard to the judiciary whenever he deems such information or recommendation necessary.

Duties Increase

I address you for the further reason that the Constitution vests in the Congress direct responsibility in the creation of courts and judicial offices and in the formulation of rules of practice and procedure. It is, therefore, one of the definite duties of the Congress constantly to maintain the effective functioning of the federal judiciary.

The judiciary has often found itself handicapped by insufficient personnel with which to meet a growing and more complex business. It is true that the physical facilities of conducting the business of the courts have been greatly improved, in recent years, through the erection of suitable quarters, the provision of adequate libraries and the addition of subordinate court officers. But in many ways these are merely the trappings of judicial office. They play a minor part in the processes of justice.

Since the earliest days of the republic, the problem of the personnel of the courts has needed the attention of the Congress. For example, from the beginning, over repeated protests to President Washington, the justices of the Supreme Court were required to "ride circuit" and, as circuit justices, to hold trials throughout the length and breadth of the land—a practice which endured over a century.

Increased in '69

In almost every decade since 1789 changes have been made by the Congress whereby the number of judges and the duties of judges in federal courts have been altered in one way or another. The Supreme Court was established with six members in 1789; it was reduced to five in 1801; it was increased to seven in 1807; it was increased to nine in 1837; it was increased to 10 in 1863; it was reduced to seven in 1866; it was increased to nine in 1869.

The simple fact is that today a new need for legislative action arises because the personnel of the federal judiciary is insufficient to meet the business before them. A growing body of our citizens complain of the complexities, the delays, and the expense of litigation in United States courts.

A letter from the attorney-general, which I submit herewith, justifies by reasoning and statistics the common impression created by our overcrowded federal dockets—and it proves the need for additional judges.

Delay in any court results in injustice.

It makes lawsuits a luxury available only to the few who can afford them or who have property interests to protect which are sufficiently large to repay the cost. Poorer litigants are compelled to abandon valuable rights or to accept inadequate or unjust settlements because of sheer inability to finance or to await the end of a long litigation. Only by speeding up the processes of the law and thereby reducing their cost, can we eradicate the growing impression that the courts are chiefly a haven for the well to do.

Cites Burden

Delays in the determination of appeals have the same effect. Moreover, if trials of original actions are expedited and existing accumulations of cases are reduced, the volume of work imposed on the circuit courts of appeals will further increase.

The attainment of speedier justice in the courts below will enlarge the task of the Supreme court itself. And still more work would be added by the recommendation which I make later in this message for the quicker determination of constitutional questions by the highest court.

Even at the present time the Supreme Court is laboring under a heavy burden. Its difficulties in this respect were superficially lightened some years ago by authorizing the court, in its discretion, to refuse to hear appeals in many classes of cases. This discretion was so freely exercised that in the last fiscal year, although 867 petitions for review were presented to the Supreme Court, it declined to hear 717 cases. If petitions in behalf of the government are excluded, it appears that the court permitted private litigants to prosecute appeals in only 108 cases out of 803 applications.

Many of the refusals were doubtless warranted. But can it be said that full justice is achieved when a court is forced by the sheer necessity of keeping up with its business to decline, without even an explanation, to hear 87 per cent of the cases presented to it by private litigants?

Can't Hear All

It seems clear, therefore, that the necessity of relieving present congestion extends to the enlargement of the capacity of all the federal courts.

A part of the problem of obtaining a sufficient number of judges to dispose of cases is the capacity of the judges themselves.

This brings forward the question of aged or infirm judges—a subject of delicacy and yet one which requires frank discussion.

In the federal courts there are in all 237 life tenure permanent judgeships. Twenty-five of them are now held by judges over 70 years of age and eligible to leave the bench on full pay. Originally no pension or retirement allowance was provided by the Congress.

When after 80 years of our national history the Congress made provision for pensions, it found a well-entrenched tradition among judges to cling to their posts, in many instances far beyond their years of physical or mental capacity. Their salaries were small. As with other men, responsibilities and obligations accumulated. No alternative had been open to them except to attempt to perform the duties of their offices to the very edge of the grave.

In exceptional cases, of course, judges, like other men, retain to an advanced age full mental and physical vigor. Those not so fortunate are often unable to perceive their own infirmities. "They seem to be tenacious of the appearance of adequacy." The voluntary retirement law of 1869 provided, therefore, only a partial solution. That law, still in force, has not proved effective in inducing aged judges to retire on a pension.

This result had been foreseen in the debates when the measure was being considered. It was then proposed that when a judge refused to retire upon reaching the age of 70, an additional judge should be appointed to assist in the work of the court. The proposal passed the House but was eliminated in the Senate.

With the opening of the twentieth century, and the great increase of population and commerce, and the growth of a more complex type of litigation, similar proposals were introduced in the Congress. To meet the situation, in 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916, the attorneys general then in office recommended to the Congress that when a district or a circuit judge failed to retire at the age of seventy, an additional judge be appointed in order that the affairs of the court might be promptly and adequately discharged.

In 1919 a law was finally passed providing that the President "may" appoint additional district and circuit judges, but only upon a finding that the incumbent judge over 70 "is unable to discharge efficiently all the duties of his office by reason of mental or physical disability of permanent character." The discretionary and indefinite nature of this legislation has rendered it ineffective. No President should be asked to determine the ability or disability of any particular judge.

Judge's Duty

The duty of a judge involves more than presiding or listening to testimony or arguments. It is well to remember that the mass of details involved in the average of law cases today is vastly greater and more complicated than even 20 years ago. Records and briefs must be read; statutes, decisions, and extensive material of a technical, scientific, statistical and economic nature must be searched and studied; opinions must be formulated and written. The modern tasks of judges call for the use of full energies.

Modern complexities call also for a constant infusion of new blood in the courts, just as it is needed in executive functions of the government and in private business.

A lowered mental or physical vigor leads men to avoid an examination of complicated and changed conditions. Little by little, new facts become blurred through old glasses fitted, as it were, for the needs of another generation; older men, assuming that the scene is the same as it was in the past, cease to explore or inquire into the present or the future.

Static Judiciary

We have recognized this truth in the Civil Service of the nation and of many states by compelling retirement on pay at the age of 70. We have recognized it in the Army and Navy by retiring officers at the age of 64. A number of states have recognized it by providing in their constitutions for compulsory retirement of aged judges.

Life tenure of judges, assured by the Constitution, was designed to place the courts beyond temptations or influences which might impair their judgements.

It was not intended to create a static judiciary. A constant and systematic addition of younger blood will vitalize the courts and better equip them to recognize and apply the essential concepts of justice in the light of the needs and the facts of an ever-changing world.

It is obvious, therefore, from both reason and experience, that some provision must be adopted, which will operate automatically to supplement the work of older judges and accelerate the work of the court.

I, therefore, earnestly recommend that the necessity of an increase in the number of judges be supplied by legislation providing for the appointment of additional judges in all federal courts, without exception, where there are incumbent judges of retirement age who do not choose to retire or to resign.

Urges "Proctors"

If an elder judge is not in fact incapacitated, only good can come from the presence of an additional judge in the crowded state of the dockets; if the capacity of an elder judge is in fact impaired, the appointment of an additional judge is indispensable. This seems to be a truth which can not be contradicted.

I also recommend that the Congress provide machinery for taking care of sudden or long-standing congestion in the lower courts. The Supreme Court should be given power to appoint an administrative assistant who may be called a proctor. He would be charged with the duty of watching the calendars and the business of all the courts in the federal system.

The chief justice thereupon should be authorized to make a temporary assignment of any circuit or district judge hereafter appointed in order that he may serve as long as needed in any circuit or district where the courts are in arrears.

I attach a carefully considered draft of a proposed bill which, if enacted, would, I am confident, afford substantial relief. The proposed measure also contains a limit on the total number of judges who might thus be appointed and also a limit on the potential size of any one of our federal courts.

These proposals do not raise any issue of constitutional law. They do not suggest any form of compulsory retirement for incumbent judges. Indeed, those who have reached the retirement age, but desire to continue their judicial work, would be able to do so under less physical and mental strain and woudl be able to play a useful part in relieving the growing congestion in the business of our courts.

Among them are men of eminence and great ability whose services the government would be loath to lose. If, on the other hand, any judge eligible for retirement should feel that his court would suffer because of an increase in its membership, he may retire or resign under already existing provisions of law if he wishes so to do.

In this connection let me say that the pending proposal to extend to the justices of the Supreme Court the same retirement privileges now available to other federal judges has my entire approval.

One further matter requires immediate attention. We have witnessed the spectacle of conflicting decisions in both trial and appellate courts on the constitutionality of every form of important legislation. Such a welter of uncomposed differences of judicial opinion has brought the law, the courts, and, indeed, the entire administration of justice dangerously near to disrepute.

A Federal statute is held legal by one judge in one district and held illegal by another judge in another district. An act valid in one judicial circuit is invalid in another judicial circuit. Thus rights fully accorded to one group of citizens may be denied to others. As a practical matter this means that for periods running as long as one year or two years or three years—until final determination can be made by the Supreme Court—the law loses its most indispensable element—equality.

Losing Certainty

Moreover, during the long processes of preliminary motions, original trials, petitions for rehearings, appeals, reversals on technical grounds requiring retrials, motions before the supreme court and the final hearing by the highest tribunal—during all this time labor, industry, agriculture, commerce and the government itself go through an unconscionable period of uncertainty and embarrassment.

And it is well to remember that during these long processes the normal operations of society and government are handicapped in many cases by differing and divided opinions in the lower courts and by the lack of any clear guide for the dispatch of business.

Thereby our local system is fast losing another essential of justice—certainty.

Finally, we find the processes of government itself brought to a completes top from time to time by injunctions issued almost automatically, sometimes even without notice to the government, and not infrequently in clear violation of the principle of equity that injunctions should be granted only in those rare cases of manifest illegality and irreparable damage against which the ordinary course of the law offers no protection.

Statutes which the Congress enacts are set aside or suspended for long periods of time, even in cases to which the government is not a party.

In the uncertain state of the law, it is not difficult for the ingenious to devise novel reasons for attacking the validity of new legislation or its application. While these questions are laboriously brought to issue and debated through a series of courts, the government must stand aside.

It matters not that the Congress has enacted the law, that the executive has signed it and that the administrative machinery is waiting to function.

Third House

Government by injunction lays a heavy hand upon normal processes; and no important statute can take effect—against any individual or organisation with the means to employ lawyers and engage in wide-flung litigation—until it has passed through the whole hierarchy of the courts.

Thus the judiciary, by postponing the effective date of acts of the Congress, is assuming an additional function and is coming more and more to constitute a scattered, loosely organized and slowly operating third House of the National Legislature.

This state of affairs has come upon the nation gradually over a period of decades. In my annual message to this Congress I expressed some views and some hopes.

Now, as an immediate step, I recommend that the Congress provide that no decision, injunction, judgment or decree on any constitutional question be promulgated by any federal court without previous and ample notice to the attorney general and an opportunity for the United States to present evidence and be heard.

This is to prevent court action on the constitutionality of acts of the Congress in suits between private individuals, where the government is not a party to the suits, without giving opportunity to the government of the United States to defend the law of the land.

Immediate Appeal

I also earnestly recommend that in cases in which any court of first instance determines a question of constitutionality, the Congress provide that there shall be a direct and immediate appeal to the Supreme Court, and that such cases take precedence over all other matters pending in that court.

Such legislation will, I am convinced, go far to alleviate the inequality, uncertainty and delay in the disposition of vital questions of constitutionality arising under our fundamental law.

My desire is to strengthen the administration of justie and to make it a more effective servant of public need. In the American ideal of government the courts find an essential and constitutional place.

In striving to fulfill that ideal, not only the judges bu the Congress and the executive as well, must do all in their power to bring the judicial organization and personnel to the high standards of usefulness which sound and efficient government and modern conditions require.

This message has dealt with four present needs:

First, to eliminate congestion of calendars and to make the judiciary as a whole less static by the constant and systematic addition of new blood to its personnel; ... ...

Second, to make the judiciary more elastic by providing for temporary transfers of circuit and district judges to those places where federal courts are most in arrears;

Third, to furnish the Supreme Court practical assistance in supervising the conduct of business in the lower courts;

NINE-JUSTICE PERSONNEL FIXED IN LINCOLN'S DAY

Relieved of Change

If we increase the personnel of the federal courts so that cases may be promptly decided in the first instance, and may be given adequate and prompt hearing on all appeals; if we invigorate all the courts by the persistent infusion of new blood; if we grant to the Supreme Court further power and responsibility in maintaining the efficiency of the entire federal judiciary; and if we assure government participation in the speedier consideration and final determination of all constitutional questions, we shall go a long way toward our high objectives.

If these measures achieve their aim, we may be relieved of the necessity of considering any fundamental changes in the powers of the courts or the Constitution of our government — changes which involve consequences so far-reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course.

BATTLE SURE OVER ROOSEVELT JUDGE PLAN

listened intently as they heard Roosevelt's words read, eagerly snapping up copies of the text and an accompanying letter from Attorney-General Cummings, for study.

REACTIONS BUBBLED

Reactions bubbed immediately, some so torrid that they recalled the comment when Roosevelt remarked that the Supreme Court's invalidation of NRA was a return to "horse and buggy days."

This phrase resounded in the presidential campaign in Republican criticisms of Roosevelt. Representative Snell, the Republican leader who presided over the party's last national convention, quickly commented:

"The administration already has destroyed the economic stability of the country. Now it proposes to destroy the judicial stability. This is pretty nearly the beginning of the end of everything."

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, as quickly issued a prepared statement in behalf of the President's plan—there had been a special White House round-table discussion with the cabinet and congressional leaders before it went to Capitol Hill—but some other Democrats were on the other side.

Supreme Court justices who would be affected by the President's retirement plan are: Van Devanter, McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland—regarded by many lawyers as the "conservative" justices—and Chief Justice Hughes and Brandeis, the last of whom has been considered by attorneys a "liberal."

Roosevelt emphasized that his plan did not suggest "any form of compulsory retirement," adding:

"Among them (justices) are men of emminence and great ability, whose services the government would he loath to lose. If, on the other hand, any judge eligible for retirement should feel that his court would suffer because of an increase in its membership, he may retire or resign under already existing provisions of law if he wishes so to do." . . .

UNCERTAIN PERIOD

The President said judicial injunctions were causing the government "an unconscionable period of uncertainty and embarrassment" and urged quick appeal from lower courts tot he Supreme Court on constitutional questions because:

"The judiciary, by postponing the effective date of acts of Congress, is assuming an additional function and is coming more and more to constitute a scattered, loosely organized and slowly operating third house of the national legislature."

Roosevelt's four specific recommendations:

1—Power for the President to nominate an additional judge in any court when an incumbent has reached the age of 70, has held office for 10 years and within six months after reaching 70 has neither resigned nor retired.

2—Power for the Supreme Court to appoint an administrative assistant or "proctor" to watch lower court calendars and permit the chief justice to assign district and circuit judges temporarily to areas where the dockets are congested.

3—Provision that no decision, injunction, judgment or decree on any constitutional question be promulgated by any federal court without previous and ample notice to the attorney general of the United States and an opportunity for the United States to present evidence and be heard.

4—Provision that when any inferior court determines a question of constitutionality, there shall be a direct and immediate appeal to the Supreme Court and that such cases take precedence over all other matters pending in that court.

The President's message also was accompanied by a letter from Attorney-General Cummings asserting delay in administration of justice "is the outstanding defect of our federal judicial system."

CONFERS WITH LEADERS

Before sending the document to the Capitol, the Chief Executive discussed the subject at a special cabinet meeting attended by Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Democratic leaders Robinson and Rayburn, and Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz.) and Sumners (D-Texas) of the Senate and House judiciary committees.

This meeting caused a half-hour delay i nthe President's press conference at which he read the message and explained it.

He said in his message he was urging no compulsory retirement of judges but asserted the necessity for "relieving present congestion extends to the enlargements of the capacity of all the federal courts."

237 LIFE BERTHS

The President said there were 237 life tenure judgeships in the Federal courts, 25 held by judges over 70 and eligible to leave the bench on full pay.

Life tenures, assured by the Constitution, he said, was designed to place the courts "beyond temptations or influences which might impair their judgments; it was not intended to create a static judiciary. A Constant and systematic addition of younger blood will vitalize the courts and better equip them to recognize and apply the essential concepts of justice in the light of the needs and the facts of an ever-changing world."

The bill would limit the total number of judges to be added in all courts to 50. Six of the present nine Supreme Court justices are past 70, and under the proposed bill they would have the same retirement privileges that are now accorded lower court judges. The latter may now retire on full pay but a Spreme Court justice must resign to obtain full pay.

VITES "PRESENT NEEDS"

Near the close of his message, Mr. Roosevelt said it dealt with four "present needs."

"First," he said, "to eliminate congestion of calendars and to make the judiciary as a whole less static by the constant and systematic addition of new blood to its personnel; Second, to make the judiciary more elastic by providing for temporary transfers of circuit and district judges to those places where the Federal courts are most in arrears; Third, to furnish the Supreme Court practical assistance in supervising the conduct of business in the lower courts; Fourth, to eliminate inequality, uncertainty and delay now existing in the determination of Constitutional questions involving Federal statues."

If all of these things were done, he asserted, "we shall go a long way toward our high objective."

"If these measures achieve their aim," the President continued, "we may be relieved of the necessity of considering any fundamental changes in the powers of the courts or the constitution of our government—changes which involve consequences so far-reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course."

AS I SEE IT

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

It seems that those boys in Miami are getting away with their slot-machine roulette wheels and crap tables, all right, but a strange calamity has befallen.

The house just can't win. The customers are beating the games like breaking sticks. The last time the operators peered at their ledgers was midnight Wednesday night, and such a reddish glow suffused the pages that they thought it was sun-up, and ordered their breakfast.

DAMON RUNYON

Now here, of course, is something utterly unexpected, and unforeseen by the operators. They don't know what to make of it. They anticipated a little quibbling from the law about their apparatus. They realized that it might rain. They understood that an earthquake, while improbable, wasn't entirely beyond the bounds of possibility.

But never did they look for any resistance against the law of average on the part of the customers. The law of average is that the customers must lose. It really isn't in nature that a customer should consistently beat a roulette wheel, or a crap game. If he does he isn't a customer. The operators are wondering if a lot of wolves in sports clothing have sneaked into Florida this winter.

Slot Machines Make Games Legal

We told you about these Florida slot-machine wheels and crap tables some time ago.

The slot-machine is legal in Florida. Roulette wheels, and craps, and similar diversions, are illegal. So a man invented a device loaded with roulette balls, and attached this device to a roulette lay-out.

When you signify a desire to have a little roulette, the croupier, or dealer, inserts a half-dollar in a slot, pushes a plunger, and out comes a roulette ball, which is spun in the wheel. A new ball is used for each spin. At the crap table, the coin produces a pair of dice, and a new pair is brought out for each dice hurler.

The operation of the slot-machine, you understand, has no relation whatever to the mechanics of the wheel, or the dice. It is just something that the man thought up to give the pastimes a somewhat vague semblance of slot-machines, and the Florida law issued licenses to them as such at $1000 per copy.

There was some poking and prying about, and some hemming and hawing by other limbs o' the law after the slot machines were placed in operation, but they all finally came to the conclusion that there wasn't anything they could do about them, and the operators began figuring out how much they ought to make if the season was anything at all.

Customers Upset Operators' Plans

One operator thought half a million would be about right. Another was more conservative, or maybe less greedy. He thought a coupla hunner G's would be fine. That was before the dealers began reporting that the customers were acting in a most uncustomerly manner.

Of course, science has no record of any gaming house operator admitting he is winner under any circumstances, so perhaps the slot-machine operators in Miami may be exaggerating to some extent when they say they are far in the rear. It is the custom of a gaming house operator to complain of hunger when he may have a ham under his arm.

But wholly unprejudiced and dispassionate observers are confirming the reports, so there must be some element of truth in them. It is another indication that 1937 may be a most unusual year. The customers haven't been winner since the year Barbara Fritchie told the Johnny Rebs to shoot if they must her old gray head.

Lady Luck Frowns on New Devices

The more superstitious of the old dealers of the games in Florida are said to attribute this untoward flouting of the ordinarily immutable law of average to the new-fangled devices of the lay-outs.

The old dealers say that while it is true the slots have no connection with the mechanical operation of the games, they are an offense in the sight of the goddess of fortune, as well as a lot of additional work for the dealers.

The dealers, it is said, are as much put out by the way the house is losing, as the house itself. That's a funny thing about a dealer. He gets his wages, win, lose or draw, from the house, yet he takes a positively sadistic pleasure in seeing the customer knocked out.

You would think a dealer would have some sympathy for a fellow human struggling on the other side of the table, but no. The dealer seems to thoroughly enjoy raking your checks over to his side. We used to know a dealer who got such keen enjoyment out of this proceeding that he would laugh right out loud. He had a real mean streak in him.

Law of Average Sure to Catch Up

We must warn our readers not to put too much faith in these early returns on the customers down Miami way, and to withhold the cheering until the season is over.

The law of average has been known to start out a trifle gimp-legged before, and to give the customers a big lead. But the law of average has a lot of endurance, and if the customer sticks around long enough, the old L. of A. is bound to catch up with him. The grind, as the boys say, must grind you in.

Nonetheless, our information is that the operators are worrying. One of them, we are told, privately took a whirl against a wheel the other night to see if he could determine just what was wrong. He hit four numbers one after the other, and decided to become a customer himself until the law of average gets to showing a little of its stuff.

Fire Pumper Pumps Self Down in Mud

North Easton, Feb. 5—Weary firemen had to walk or hitch-hike four miles back to their station house today after the department's big new motor pumper became hopelessly mired at the scene of a farm blaze on Bay street near Beaver Dam road.

Flames destroyed two barns and part of an unoccupied house at the old Hewitt place, title to which is now held by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Hose lines had to be laid from a pond, 300 yards from the burning buildings. The motor pumper pumped itself right down to its wheel hubs in marshland at the edge of the pond. The pond's surface was frozen, compelling firemen to chop through eight inches of ice.

After the farm blaze was under control, members of the pumper's crew toiled for two hours, trying to dig or haul the heavy truck to solid ground.

When they finally gave it up, they found they had no transportation home.

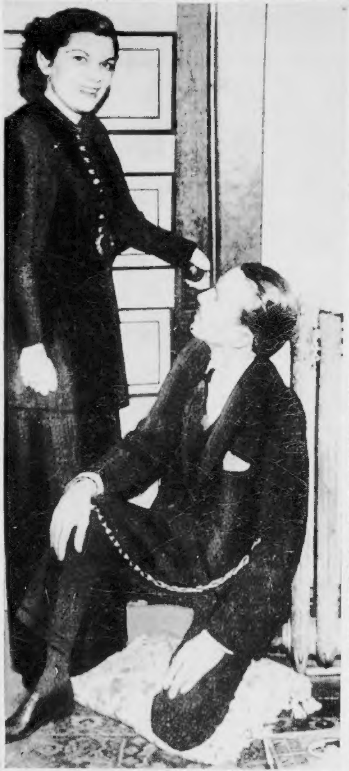
Some walked.

Some hitch-hiked.

None had anything to say—for publication.

So You Won't Give in, Eh?

Radiator Heat Adds Woe To Love-Striker



International [illegible]

One of the few comforts in the current life of Harold Hulen is a rare smile from the girl of his affections, Miss Florence Hurlburt. Harold, you know, chained himself to the radiator in the lobby of the apartment house in which Florence lives at Excelsior Springs, Mo., telling one and all he intended remaining there until she consented to be his bride.

Sit-Down Romeo Is Scorched, But Stays On Heart Job

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Feb. 5 (US) — Harold Hulen, radiator romeo, who applied tactics of organized labor to unorganized love, found his sit-down strike near disaster as a janitor "turned on the heat."

While Miss Florence Hurlbut was still unable to "make up her mind" about marrying her persistent suitor, violence was feared until Mayor John Lodwick intervened and ordered the heat turned off.

As the radiator again cooled Harold, slightly scorched from his chained contact with the heating apparatus, resumed his demand on Florence that she "end his misery" by marrying him.

Ball and Chain

Harold's misery had been added to by three city firemen who brought a large ball and chain, such as was used in medieval dungeons, and more tightly attached him to the lobby radiator in the apartment where Florence lives.

Miss Hurlbut still remained undecided, at least for publication. She said:

"I like him all right and maybe I love him, but if he thinks I'm going to be stampeded he's crazy. Whoever heard of a sit-down strike for love? And besides, it doesn't look good to the neighbors."

Hulen sent out for a bicycle with a raised rear wheel so he can get some exercise, and he thought three bridge partners would be a help.

Got Health Back

The comment of the apartment house manager on this statement was:

"What do you mean 'will go nutty'?"

Hulen, a former actor who came to this spa to regain his health, denied that his present job as director of amusements for the Chamber of Commerce had anything to do with his romantic antics. He added:

"I regained my health here. I know that sounds like publicity but its my story and I'll stick to it."

Miss Hurlbut did nothing to dim the glare of sudden publicity which has fallen on the municipal mineral springs through the eccentric ardor of her steam-pipe swain.

Eucharist Congress Thousands Flee Downpour

Manila, Feb. 5 (AP)—A downpour of rain interrupted the second international assembly of the Eucharistic Congress tonight, forcing thousands gathered in Luneta Park to shelter.

Prelates and laymen transferred the session to a radio station where a half-dozen speeches were broadcast, on the theme, "The Holy Eucharist as a Sacrament."

Officials made preparations to handle 80,000 children at an outdoor communion and mass early tomorrow morning.

The next international congress, reliable church circles said today, will probably be in Budapest, Hungary, during the summer of 1938.

Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, Papal Legate to the congress, received the praise and blessings of Pope Pius XI for the "magnificent triumph" of the great assemblage.

Lindberghs Tour Rome in Privacy

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh devoted another day together to sightseeing in the Eternal City, after postponing their takeoff for Tripoli on a flight, presumably to Cairo, Egypt.

The American flier's orange and black touring monoplane waited while he and Mrs. Lindbergh visited the Vatican Museum and the Sistine Chapel in privacy, guarded by Italian police.

SHIFT 34 BROOKLINE POLICE AS RESULT OF VICE QUIZ

As a result of the Brookline vice investigation, in connection with which six men are under indictment, the biggest shakeup in the history of the Brookline police department was announced today.

Police Chief H. Allen Rutherford, whose own resignation is said to have been "suggested" by members of the Norfolk County grand jury, shifted 34 men. The transfers become effective Sunday.

The transfer of any particular individual is not necessarily a reflection on his work, it was pointed out.

Lieutenant James W. Tonra and Patrolman William R. MacMillan were designated as the vice and liquor squad to replace Sergeant Harry McNeill, one of those indicted.

Patrick J. Kelly, Walter Johnson, Frederick C. Munsil, Patrick J. Norris, Thomas F. Donahue, Edward C. Munsil, Patrick C. Rutledge, Thomas R. Barrett, Michael J. McGrail, David Minnis, Patrick Ryan, Daniel J. Lynch, Thomas P. Carroll.

TRAFFIC CHANGES

Also shifted are the following traffic officers: Herbert L. Lynn, James P. Meade, John G. Thompson, William E. Murphy and John McInerney and Motorcycle Officers Samuel J. McNeilly and William H. Oram.

It was revealed today that Margaret Toth, the Passaic, N. J., high school girl, who at the age of 15 was enticed from home and established in a disreputable house in Brookline, is seriously ill with influenza.

She is under a doctor's care at a downtown Boston hotel and her illness may thwart plans of District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing for an early trial in the Brookline case.

The Norfolk county grand jury may reconvene for further investigation of alleged vice and graft in Brookline.

JURY MAY RECOVER

On reliable authority it was learned that a member of the special grand jury, which returned indictments, is prepared to appear in Dedham superior court and ask that the jurors be called together again.

This information came in the wake of the disclosure that 15 members of the grand jury had signed a petition asking that the session be reopened.

Under the law any single member of a grand jury can appear before a single justice of the superior court and ask that the panel be reconvened on the ground that he desires to hear more witnesses on any single case. On such a petition the court could order the jury to reconvene.

CHALLENGES JURORS

District Attorney Dewing said that, so far as he knew, no member of the special grand jury had yet come forward with a request for recalling the panel and that, as far as he was concerned, he would not do so at the present time.

He also challenged any juror to accuse him of having withheld any evidence during the inquiry last week into alleged vice and graft in Brookline.

Despite his assertion, the signing of a petition for reconvening the session by a majority of the jury indicates some dissatisfaction with the present status of the case.

Residents of the town of Brookline have also grown increasingly indignant within the past few days at what, it has been openly asserted, are attempts in certain quarters to "whitewash" the case.

SIX INDICTMENTS

The special grand jury, after hearing evidence in the case, last week returned indictments against six persons, three of them Brookline police officers, on charges which included bribery, extortion and operation of houses of ill fame.

Petitions are being circulated in the town demanding that the selectmen answer certain questions regarding the administration of the community's government.

Demands are also being made that the contents of letters sent to the selectmen by the grand jurors be made public on the grounds that they effect the questions regarding the town government.

Apparently recognizing the growing feeling of the townspeople regarding the situation, Judge Daniel A. Rollins, chairman of the selectmen, has announced a special meeting of the board, to follow its regular session next Monday.

IRKED AT INACTION

While he would not comment on what action was considered at this special session, it was believed that the matter of resignations of members of the town government, reportedly suggested by the grand jury, would again come up for discussion.

Members of the grand jury were understood to be dissatisfied mainly over the inaction regarding their suggestions.

They are understood to have made certain suggestions regarding the conduct of town departments in addition to the resignations of two town officials.

At least two members of the board have favored publication of the reports of District Attorney Dewing and the special grand jury. They have indicated their intention of moving for open discussion of the case in the future in the belief that this is the best policy in the complicated situation.

The arrest of Mrs. Mildred Scott, alias McKeown, alias Hilda Stone, and her confinement in East Cambridge jail for six months on an old suspended sentence added another dramatic turn to the case.

OFFICIALS MUM

While officials remained mum on the situation, it was believed this move was designed to keep her in custody and at the same time protect her from threats of death or physical harm, which State Detective Theodore W. Johnson said, she declared had been made to her.

Johnson brought her here after locating her in a New Hampshire town, where she allegedly fled in fear of her life.

She disappeared three weeks before the evidence in the vice probe was presented to the special grand jury session and at the time was believed to have been a kidnap victim.

Lifers Play Priests In Prison Show

State Prison, Wethersfield, Ct., Feb. 5 (INS)—Theatrical efforts of 31 prison inmates here who comprised the cast of "The First Legion" were rewarded with enthusiasm rivalling a "First Night" on Broadway last night by an audience of over 700, most of them women.

Off stage many of the cast were lifers, but in the play depicting the Society of Jesus, nine of the inmates took the role of priests with such perfection that the audience forgot they were within prison walls and cheered to express its appreciation.

Three of the cast especially pleased the audience. Luman Beckett, a lifer who has gained fame as a short story writer, directed the play. He played the role of Rev. Mark Ahern, kindly and sympathetic Jesuit.

Daniel Collie excelled in the part of the uncompromising ascetic, Rev. Robert Stuart, and Michael McDonnell, a lifer, whose gray hair added a realistic touch to the scenes portrayed Rev. Monsignor Carey.

The play was suggested by Eva Le Gallienne, who also visited the prison last week and helped with the rehearsals.

Warden Ralph H. Walker announced that there will be another performance for the inmates of the prison tonight.

Barber Nagged, So Off Comes Hair

Worcester, Feb. 5—His own will, leaving his wife his barber shop, "worth more than $1, so she can buy herself some poison and die," was read in probate court here by Andrew Kozak.

He is seeking a legal separation. Counsel for Mrs. Kozak introduced the will as evidence.

Kozak testified that his wife's nagging got him so nervous he sometimes clipped hair off the top of his customers' heads instead of off the sides.

Father and Son In Bottle Fight

Aftermath, according to police, of an early morning battle with beer bottles in their Howland street, Cambridge, home, Joseph Granfield, Sr., 75, was under arrest today, and his son Joseph Granfield, Jr., 38, was in Somerville Hospital.

Treated at Cambridge City Hospital for a gash on one arm, allegedly suffered when she attempted to break up the fight, was Mrs. Loretta Fennell of Harrison avenue, Dorchester. One stitch was taken in her arm.

MAID RETURNS TO STAND IN THEFT TRIAL

Worcester, Feb. 5—Mrs. Emma Green, Negro household maid, who furnished a picturesque description of the $125,000 jewel robbery at the Kennedy home in Southboro, returns to the witness stand for cross-examination today in the trial of four men in superior court for the theft.

Samuel Linden of Boston and Joseph Bellina of Newark, N. J., on trial for participating in the robbery, were both identified as being in the bandit quartet by Mrs. Green in her testimony.

Frank and James Ciampa, brothers, of Boston, are also on trial on indictments charging them with being accessories after the fact of the robbery.

TO JURY NEXT WEEK

District Attorney Owen A. Hoban estimated today as the trial was about to resume that the case would probably go to the jury late next Tuesday.

He still declined to comment on reports that Mrs. Dorothy Cullen Lewes, vivacious red-haired Boston girl, indicted as an alleged accessory after the fact but not put on trial, would be a witness before the end of the trial.

Despite her continued absence from the courtroom, Hoban said today that he was aware of her whereabouts and would be able to produce her if her presence was required.

SOUTH WITH BELLINA

The testimony of Police Lieutenant Edward W. Melcher, of Miami, linked her with Bellina, the officer stating that she had been with the defendant in the Florida resort prior to his capture there a few weeks ago.

District Attorney Hoban also told the jury that fingerprints of Bellina, taken by police in Miami, would be matched with those found on glassware in Mrs. Lewes' apartment in Exeter street, Back Bay.

Another move to free the Ciampa brothers was indicated today with the assertion of their counsel, Attorney Gerald McCarthy, that he would again petition Judge Edward C. Donnelly for a direct verdict in their cases.

Mrs. Green's testimony regarding the robbery had the crowded courtroom snickering on several occasions.

In a voice which jumped an octave as she became excited, the witness described two of the bandits as a "lisping man who did a lot of talking" and a "small man with dark, piercing eyes who talked in a cagey tone."

Linden, she said, pointing him out in the courtroom, was the man with the "dark, piercing eyes."

PULLED PHONE WIRES

In response to questioning by Hoban, she said she was lying on a bed upstairs when she heard a bell ring. She went downstairs to a first floor study to ask Mrs. Kennedy if she had rung.

As she reached the lower floor, she said, the doorbell rang and she opened it to face a masked man.

She testified she attempted to slam the door but that four men pushed in and grabbed her. One pulled out the telephone wires, saying there would be no calls made from the house that night, she told the court.

The short man, she said, jammed a gun against her side and told her to go upstairs. She testified she could not recall if she screamed in fright but said she must have because she remembered the bandits told her to "shut up."

After the robbery had been completed, she testified, she and Mrs. Kennedy were tied in chairs on the first floor and the bandits left them.

D'Annunzio Gives Duce's Son Ring

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP)—Lieutenant Vittorio Mussolini today displayed a ring from Gabriele D'Annunzio, warrior poet and defender of Fiume, as his most prized gift for his wedding tomorrow to Orsola Buvoli.

Il Duce's eldest son and his blonde, 23-year-old bride, each received rings from D'Annunzio. Vittorio's was an index finger ring worn by the poet through the World War and the siege of Fiume.

Kidnaper in New Jail

International News Service Soundphoto

A Whopper! Whistle Brings Fish

The tallest yarn of the winter among the men of the Boston trawlers was brought ashore today by Captain Ernest O'Toole of the Tern.

"I was on deck with the mate last night coming up the bay," said Capt. O'Toole. "Suddenly a big wave washed a fish over the bow, right at our feet.

"'What a fine mackerel,' said I. 'You're wrong, Mr. O'Toole,' said the mate, 'it's a herring.'

"Another wave took the fish off again, but I said, 'I'll prove to you I'm right; I'll whistle and bring it back to show you.' So I whistled and sure enough back came the fish on the crest of another wave, landing right at my feet.

"It was a mackerel."

A fine fish story for Friday, Mr. O'Toole.

(Ed. note—We think the boys have been reading the new Boston Evening American whopper contest.)

Toscanini Plans Return to U. S.

Milan, Italy, Feb. 5 (AP)—Maestro Arturo Toscanini has agreed to return to the United States in 1938, his secretary said today, probably to conduct an entirely new philharmonic orchestra.

The maestro, who retired in 1936 after ten seasons with the New York Philharmonic Symphonic Society, is negotiating now with Samuel Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America.

7 Films In Line For Academy Prze

Hollywood, Feb. 5 (INS)—Seven pictures had been nominated today for the art direction award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

The winning picture will be selected at the academy's annual banquet next month. The seven pictures are "Anthony Adverse," "Dodsworth," "The Great Ziegfeld," "Lloyds of London," "Magnificent Brute," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Winterset."

GRILL PAROLED PRISONERS IN SLAYING

Questioning of paroled prisoners with records of attacking children continued today as officials sought a clue to the identity of the slayer of five-year-old Chester Harris.

At the same time checkup continued in an effort to trace the three large-sized laundry pins found in the shallow grave behind a billboard in Western avenue, Brighton, where the boy's skeleton was found last week.

Captain John F. McCarthy, head of the Boston police department homicide squad, who is in charge of questioning all witnesses at Middlesex courthouse, said today the search for the slayer was limited definitely to Cambridge, Brighton and Somerville.

Officers of the parole board assigned to those districts have furnished the investigators with a complete list of paroled prisoners with records of attacking children, and all of these are to be questioned, Captain McCarthy said.

"Our purpose in checking up these men is to ascertain if they have any information," the captain said.

"In men of that type confined in prison a certain amount of information is exchanged, and it is possible that one of these men may supply us with a clue."

As spokesman for the combined detective forces working on the case, Captain McCarty said Joseph Giroux, 23, a prisoner at East Cambridge jail, has not yet been eliminated from the case.

Incidentally, it was expected that District Attorney Warren L. Bishop would move for sentence today on an indictment charging a statutory offense against a nine-year-old Cambridge boy, to which Giroux has pleaded guilty.

Giroux pleaded not guilty to another indictment charging an alleged criminal attack on the boy and has waived a jury trial on this indictment.

PRO-AMERICAN FETE SLATED

State and city officials are expected to attend the annual dinner of the National Order for Americanization and Youth Fidelity Movement next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Russian Restaurant, Fairfield street, Back Bay.

The organization was formed to foster American principles and combat alien influence.

Thomas J. McLaughlin, member of the Rindge Tech high school faculty of Cambridge, is president. The dance committee announced for this year's affair includes Miss Sheila O'Donovan Rossa, first vice-president, and Warren Stafford, of the advisory board.

Bar Bon Voyageur In 3 Countries

New York, Feb. 5 (US)—Already barred from Poland and France, Louis Comisky, Bronx pants presser, found himself barred from the United States today.

Comisky, who came here from Poland 24 years ago, fell asleep during a bon voyage party on board the Normandie November 25, and woke up at sea.

He was sent from Havre to Poland, thence back to Havre, and then to New York. Arriving here, he was ordered to Ellis Island, where immigration officials excluded him on the grounds he was an alien without passport or reentry permit, with his case referred to Washington.

Tuckerman Visits Kelly, Ill With Flu

Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly, convalescing from an influenza attack, expects to be back at work at the State House in a short time, he indicated today after he had been visited by Executive Councillor Bayard Tuckerman, Jr.

Tuckerman, Republican member of the council, was the first of that body to call on the lieutenant-governor since he has been ill.

WHAT A WHOPPER!

About Red Pepper and Rabbits

Dorothea Otis of North Main street, Cohasset, has a brother who is extremely interested in hunting—especially rabbits.

To the Boston Evening American Whopper Editor came Dorothea's story of one of her brother's hunting trips, so today she is the winner of the $2 daily award for the best "tall story," or "whopper."

Every day two dollars is given for the best "whopper." There are no rules and it's all very simple. Just write it down but be sure the story gets bigger and bigger as it goes along.

Here's today's winner of the rabbit hunt:

"My brother is extremely interested in hunting—one of those great outdoor men. Well, it seems that one day a good idea struck him for catching rabbits and without using a gun.

"He went out into the woods until he came to a thicket inhabitated by rabbits, where he gathered a dozen or so large rocks. On these rocks he sprinkled red hot pepper, then placed the rocks a good distance apart near the thicket.

"This done he hid himself and waited to see the results. Sure enough in a little while out came a bunch of rabbits. They made straight for the rocks and sniffed at the red pepper. Well, the stuff was so hot that it made them sneeze, and they sneezed so hard that on the down stroke they cracked their heads on the rocks and were knocked out cold.

"My brother then came out of his hiding place, picked up the rabbits, slung them into a bag and brought them home, where we had rabbit stew for our evening meal."

How's that? Remember there are two dollars waiting for you if your "tall story" is printed.

60 FRIARS FACE TRIAL BY SPAIN RED COURT

Madrid, Feb. 5 (AP) — A special "people's court" will sit in judgment Monday on the Augustine friars who dwelt in the El Escorial monastery built by gloomy King Phillip II nearly 400 years ago, the government announced today.

The monks are charged with holding "anti-government tendencies" in Spain's civil war. So far the government has kept possession of El Escorial, northwest of Madrid, despite siege by insurgent armies.

There are perhaps 60 of the friars, and there are nearly 1500 more persons who are similarly indicted by the Socialist regime in Spain.

The friars will be tried by a court made up of a judge and two "representatives of the people."

Simultaneously, Wenceslao Carrillo, director-general of public safety, announced he would begin immediately to examine the cases of all prisoners in Madrid's teeming jails, with a view to liberating those against whom there is insufficient evidence of Fascism.

The others will be hustled to trial.

Rebel Drive on Malaga Halted by Red Defenders

Malaga, Feb. 5 (AP)—Insurgent efforts to break through this strategic port city's defense lines were halted today by determined Socialist resistance.

Government troops held firm on three fronts, though buffeted by simultaneous attacks of the Fascist southern army's combined land, air and sea push against the provincial capital.

The Socialist battalions dominated the communications from Alora, only 18 miles to the west, after a counter-attack in force inflicted heavy losses on the insurgent besiegers.

The government resistance stiffened on the Ronda and Ojen fronts farther west, and the Fascist drive was repulsed.

After desperate fighting throughout yesterday in the Alora sector, nightfall found the Socialist forces still holding the heights commanding the important railway entering Malaga from the northwest.

(Wounded Fascist soldiers streaming into cities behind the front lines, reports to Gibraltar said, declared the "major attack" of the insurgents was meeting "desperate" resistance. The Fascists said the government losses in the Ojen hills were heavy.)

37 Americans Arrive To Fight for Reds

Cherbourg, France, Feb. 5 (AP)—A contingent of 84 volunteers, including 37 Americans, arrived on the liner Aquitania today en route to Spain to fight against the Insurgents. The American consul and French special police watched them land, but said they were powerless to halt the youths as their passports indicated only they were coming to France.

Boston Woman Loses 17 Cats

Lonesomest woman in Greater Boston today, she claimed, was Mrs. Katherine F. Hennelt of Canal street, West Medford.

Her 17 cats, taken away from her by police, were guests of the Animal Rescue League, Carver street, Boston.

Neighbors complained that the tabbies were a public nuisance. Judge Elbridge G. Davis of Malden District Court set Thursday, Feb. 11, as date for a hearing in the matter.

POPE STRONGER MUST AVOID EXERTION

Vatican City, Feb. 5 (AP)—A "notable" improvement in the condition of Pope Pius XI was announced today in an official bulletin in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, commemorating the coming 15th anniversary of the Pope's election.

The bulletin said:

"On the eve of the fortunate anniversary of the elevation of His Holiness to the Pontifical throne, we are glad to announce that the conditions of His Holiness' health are notably improved." (The anniversary is tomorrow.)

HEART IMPROVES

Conditions traceable to the Pope's heart, the bulletin added, "Have proceeded gradually toward normal, both with regard to the disturbance of the rhythm and in that which regards myocardiac (relating to the muscular wall of the heart) efficiency.

"Even trophic disturbances in inferior members have improved and continue appreciably to improve with almost total cicatrization of ulcerations which have been the cause of so much suffering."

EXERTION CHIEF PERIL

His night was somewhat less tranquil than the last few, but the Pontiff's spirits were unaffected and he declared to his attendants:

"If the Lord permits us to live it is only because we must work for the well-being of our children."

Sources close to the Holy Father said his expectation to have many more weeks, possibly months, of life depends on the resistance of his heart.

Excessive exertion, they said, is the greatest concern of Dr. Aminta Milani, who has worked especially to relieve his patient's critical heart affliction.

$50,000 Amid Miser Lady's Cats, Hens

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 5 (AP)—The fortune in currency found in hidden cans and shoeboxes in the hovel of Mrs. Anna Miller mounted above $50,000 today while the self-starved widow was cared for in a hospital psychopathic ward.

The last $5000 was found by a detective who peered through cobwebs into a cupboard in the three-room home the aged widow shared with chickens and cats. Officers said the dirty cottage probably contained more hoarded money.

9 Army Bombers On Panama Flight

Spartanburg, S. C., Feb. 5 (AP)—Panama-bound, nine bombers of the 96th Bombardment Squadron quit Memorial airport here early today with Miami, Fla., as the next scheduled stop. The planes will take off from Miami Saturday morning for the Canal Zone.

The fliers spent the night here after flying from Langley Field, Va., in two hours and 35 minutes, making 100 of the 340 miles in a snowstorm.

Lost 8 Days in Mine, Saved as Hope Wanes

Flemington, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP)—Robert Johnson, lost eight days in an abandoned mine, was carried to safety today, alive, well and puffing happily on a cigarette.

"I'd given up all hope," said the 36-year-old rural mail carrier as rescue workers found him two miles from the mine entrance.

Johnson, who carried coal from the mine in his spare time for sale to neighbors, was huddled behind a pile of jagged slate.

Three of the scores of volunteers who had searched the mine since Johnson disappeared January 27, heard his cries for help while exploring a narrow tunnel.

His first words were to assure himself he hadn't merely imagined a light had cut through the dark.

"I told myself, 'Bob, please don't lose that light,'" he told rescuers.

He didn't lose it.

As the rescue party came closer he called:

"Take your time, I'll guide you by your light."

LABOR APPEAL CASE WON BY SEATTLE P. I.

San Francisco, Feb. 5 (UP)—Permission to appeal a ruling of the national labor relations board in the controversy between the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the newspaper guild has been granted to William Randolph Hearst and others.

Acting on a petition filed by Mr. Hearst through San Francisco attorneys, The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the appeal could be taken.

The issue of the case is a national labor relations board order for the Post-Intelligencer to reinstate a photographer and a drama critic, who alleged they were discharged because of guild activities.

In granting the appeal permission, the circuit court instructed the labor board to certify to the court a transcript of the entire record of the case, within 20 days.

The court, however, denied an application for the stay on suspension of the labor board's order for reinstatement of the two employes, pending a decision on the appeal.

The national labor relations board has no authority by which it can enforce its orders. To do so, it must obtain rulings on them from the federal appellate court.

In denying the application for a stay or suspension, the court refused to issue a temporary injunction to restrain the board from instituting proceedings for enforcement of its order.

Cannon Loses Suit Against Tinkham; Bishop Guilty

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Justice Jenings Bailey held today that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was guilty—by his own admission—of violating the federal corrupt practices act and ended a $500,000 damage suit brought by the churchman.

Cannon sought that sum, as damages and "punishment," from Representative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts for the congressman's signed statement in 1930 that Cannon had not complied with federal law in handling 1928 funds.

"In this case," Bailey said, "the defendant has pleaded the truth of the charges made in the publication and I find from the testimony of the plaintiff and his own witnesses that he was guilty of violating the corrupt practices act, and that the charges made against him are substantially true.

Cannon's counsel filed a motion for a new trial, serving notice of appeal if a new trial were not granted.

No defense testimony was presented. Cannon did not appear because of illness.

Roger J. Whiteford, Tinkham's attorney, argued in asking the directed verdict that Cannon could not have been damaged in Tinkham's statement because the Bishop invited it. He cited numerous cases to support his contention that damages could not be collected on "invited" accusation.

Cannon was acquitted in 1933 of conspiring with Miss Ada L. Burroughs of Richmond, his secretary, to violate the corrupt practices act.

Both the criminal and civil trials were based on Cannon's handling of $63,000 contributed by E. C. Jameson of New York to Cannon for use in swinging southern states to Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Holy Cross Senior In Hit-Run Net

Worcester, Feb. 5—James J. McDermott, 20-year-old Holy Cross College senior of Staten Island, N. Y., was ordered held for the grand jury by Judge Frank L. Riley in district court here today on two charges in connection with a fatal hit and run accident.

Waiving examination, the student pleaded not guilty and was released in $300 bail.

Police had charged him with leaving the scene of an accident without making himself known and driving so as to endanger.

He is alleged to have struck and killed Pasquale Scharmo, 45, of East Shelby street, this city, at 5 a. m. on January 25 while returning to the college in company of a young woman and another student.

McDermott surrendered himself to police, stating he was unaware that he had struck anybody.

Unclad Man Kills Baby Son in Snow

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—Police Lieutenant Walter Moran said today a 27-year-old man, nude in the snow, drowned his own infant son in Leech's creek. Moran said the accused man was Robert Daniels of North Scranton.

The body of his boy, Allen, 11 months old, was recovered. Moran said Daniels told him:

"I threw the baby into the creek; I don't know why I did it." Mrs. Daniels was visiting relatives.

'Cinderella' Maid Grows Homesick

Rags to Riches for Her

LILLIAN ELIFSEN

She Pines for Norway

Englewood, N. J., Feb. 5 (INS)—Pining for her native land, Lillian Elifen, 18-year-old housemaid, who will receive the $600,000 legacy of her wealthy foster father, will use some of her money to return to her home in Svelvick, Norway, which she left ten months ago in a fit of anger.

Her plans were learned today from Mrs. Josephine Anderson, her sister. She told Lillian's rags to riches story:

"Lillian was orphaned when only two. With myself and our five brothers, she went to the Christian Orphan Home in Jersey City. All of us were penniless.

LUCKY BLUE EYES

"Her blue eyes brought luck to Lillian. While the rest of us were forced to stay in the orphanage she was singled out by Conrad Elifsen.

"At that time he was a prosperous shipbuilder in Jersey City.

"During the war, Elifsen made enough money to retire.

"With his wife and Lillian he went to Norway where he established an extensive estate."

No orphan's life was that lived by Lillian. Her foster-father lavished gifts on her.

She received a new car every year, clothes to make a queen jealous. He gave her a college education at Oslo.

"But last April," Mrs. Anderson continued, "Lillian learned for the first time she had brothers and sisters. Blaming her foster-father for holding this information from her, she ran away from home."

In New York she was welcomed by her sisters and brothers, but they were unable to maintain her in luxury.

Mrs. Anderson explained her husband was janitor in the Teaneck High school and with two children, they could not provide a home for her.

So in November Mrs. Anderson found work for Lillian as a housemaid with Herbert L. Weyde in Englewood. She washed dishes and watched six-year-old Arden Weyde.

"No more dishes for Lillian," Mrs. Anderson said. "She's been homesick for months. It will be sad for her to go back and not find her foster father there, but much nicer than being a housemaid."

Chemist Suicide In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Feb. 5 (AP)—Frederick William Tilbury, 26, of Pittsburgh, a research chemist employed by the Gulf Refining Company, killed himself with an army pistol in a taproom early today.

In a coat pocket police found a note reading, in part:

"Only one person knows, but liquor wasn't all. * * * So off to teach the devil how to dance. Yes, that toast was to rendezvous with death. Fantastical, is it not?"

WOMEN HONOR MRS. PHOEBE HEARST

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (US)—Because they fashioned from the spirit of motherhood a great and enduring practical agency for the general social and educational welfare of the youth of the nation, Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst and Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney were honored in memory here by fifteen hundred Los Angeles mothers.

These fifteen hundred represented more than seventy thousand mothers who are members of the tenth district of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is part of a great national organization, with a membership of millions for whose existence Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Birney are responsible.

FORMED CONGRESS

It was on February 17, 1897, that these two great women founded the National Mothers' Congress, which eventually became the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Throughout the nation, therefore, this month will see numberless celebrations of the fortieth birthday of the organization.

The district body arranged two observances of the anniversary. The first was that held at the regular monthly district meeting and the other is to be held on February 17, the actual anniversary.

On that day the district officers will plant a tree in memory of Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Birney on the grounds of the Cortez Elementary School, one of the first schools in the city at which a parent-teacher association was formed.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of Luther Burbank Junior High School, and that large hall was packed to capacity.

As the women entered the auditorium they received their copies of the February number of the magazine published by the California Congress, the California Parent-Teacher, and the cover proclaimed it the "Founders' Day Number."

LETTER READ

In it was a letter from the state president, Mrs. Gertrude V. Clark of Sutter's Creek, which said in part:

"Forty years ago the founders of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers called together the first congress of mothers for the purpose of interesting people in giving service to childhood.

"The very high rate of infant mortality in the United States at that time challenged the hearts and minds of parents and teachers and prompted action for the conservation of future generations.

"The history of this first meeting in Washington, D. C., should be known to every unit in California. How the idea was first conceived in the mind of Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney, a mother, and how this same idea was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst, also a mother and a great philanthropist.

"Out of this first meeting came the organization of a child welfare program which is being used today in every state in the Union. The foundation for this long time program was so well laid that it has endured and been the means of supporting a steady growth of knowledge and understanding for adults through four decades of service.

"Today we not only look back but we look ahead to the needs that challenge the hearts and minds of people who care about the next generation. The lines of our program are still as classic in outline and symmetry as the architecture of ancient Greece. There is no need to change our program but to get a wider and deeper perspective on the value of the work and its application to the problems of a modern world."

TRIBUTE BY GOVERNOR

The magazine also contains a tribute to the work of the Parent-Teacher Association by Governor Frank F. Merriam, and a copy of the governor's proclamation, proclaiming February 17 as "Founders' Day of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers" in California.

Mrs. W. R. Goddard, president of the 10th district, launched the anniversary program with a short address of tribute to the founders. She said:

"Forty years ago, two mothers had a vision, a vision which had had its realization through the years in the work of the great organization they founded.

"Sometimes we don't realize what courage it required for those two women to attempt a practical realization of their vision. Those were horse and buggy days when it was still strongly felt that 'woman's place is in the home.'

"But Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst and Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney knew that women had a special interest in and a special capacity to serve in the solution of the great problems of child welfare whose social significance made organized action by the mothers of the nation a necessity. And they had the courage and the wisdom to give practical effect to their ideas and ideals."

CAROL VOGHT CAPTAIN TONY GENIAWICZ

VINCENT TURECAMO RUTH HARDY

They're having a lot of fun at Hanover, N. H., as a sort of pre-celebration to formal opening of Dartmouth's 27th annual two-day winter carnival which takes place today. There are about four inches of snow on the ground. Here is Vincent Turecamo of Brooklyn, Dartmouth senior, about to snow-wash the pretty face of Miss Ruth Hardy of New York city.

U. S. in Move to Indict Bond Ring

Federal authorities were moving here today to indict alleged Boston members of an international ring dealing in stolen United States Treasury bonds.

Investigators said a substantial part of loot valued at $2,000,000 was palmed off on innocent investors in this city.

Grand jury action early next week was predicted today by Assistant United States Attorney Arthur J. B. Cartier.

$590,000 HAUL

He asserted that the bond ring's agents operated in Boston, New York, Paris, London, Chicago and Miami.

The investigation here, he said, coincided with others carried on elsewhere.

Biggest lots of bonds handled by the ring, according to Cartier, were taken in New York thefts in 1935.

One haul of $590,000 was made at the United States Trust Company. Then, a few weeks later, another haul of $1,456,000 was made in a Wall street skyscraper.

Disposal of the stolen securities was begun in Boston in October and November, 1935, Attorney Cartier said.

TRANSFERRED BONDS

The ring's method of operation was to establish seemingly legitimate banking credit by substantial deposits, then transfer the stolen bonds under cover of other negotiations.

Numbers of the bonds were allegedly forged to coincide with series of other bonds honestly acquired.

According to Cartier, 21 persons have already been arrested in connection with the handling of the stolen bonds.

More arrests, he said, are soon to be made, several of them here.

NEW PHYSICS LAW

Electric Motion in Metals

By G. B. LAL

Universal Service Science Writer

New York, Feb. 5 (US)—Discovery of a new law in physics that reveals perpetual motion of electric current in metals was announced here by the American Institute of Physics.

Dr. J. C. Slater, Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientist, has made the discovery, known as the theory of a "superconducting state."

It concerns a new wonder of modern physics, proving that under extreme cold certain metals become perfect carriers of an electrical current. They are then in a "superconducting state," Dr. Slater says.

PERPETUAL MOTION

For example, a looped wire of such a metal will have perpetual motion of an electrical current within it.

If the inside of a hollow metal tube has been thus rendered superconductor, its magnetic field will not be changed by any magnetic effects outside the tube. The inner magnetism will remain frozen, "stationary."

What future applications will be made, Dr. Slater does not venture to say. Nevertheless, the entire study reveals hitherto unknown facts of the utmost importance about the inner architecture and working of the metallic atoms.

In all dealings with metals or even non-metal substances Dr. Slater's new theory is expected to prove of vast usefulness.

NOT SCATTERED

This means, in a supercooled metal the electrons which are moving in a current are not scattered or knocked out by the wandering electrons of the metal's own atoms.

Under ordinary or higher temperatures the metal is full of footloose electrons which collide with and impede the regularly moving electrons of a current.

2 IN THEFT RING QUESTIONED

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (US)—Police questioned two members of an asserted Pasadena burglary ring in an effort to clear up the recent $17,000 burglary at the home of Cary Grant, film actor.

The suspects—Phillip Switzer and Willis E. Phillips—arrested with five other men and Switzer's daughter, have assertedly operated as burglars in the Los Angeles area for the past five years, perpetrating more than $50,000 worth of thefts.

More than $10,000 in asserted loot was recovered, and was being viewed today by residents of San Dimas, Covina, San Marino, Pasadena, Altadena, Los Angeles and Beverly Hills, victims of recent burglaries.

Lorraine Eddy Romance Hinted

Hollywood, Feb. 5 (INS)—A new romance and a film contract loomed today for Lorraine Eddy, British film actress.

Coming here only a few weeks ago from London Miss Eddy attracted the attention of producers. Now Hollywood has linked her name with that of Douglas Montgomery, the young actor. She was formerly the wife of Douglas MacLean, a producer.

TENNESSEE BANS CHILD MARRIAGES

EUNICE, 9, LEARNS TO COOK

By DOROTHY ROE

Sneedville, Tenn., Feb. 5 (US)—America's youngest bride took her first lesson in housekeeping, while in Nashville an aroused State Senate passed unanimously a bill barring further child marriages in Tennessee.

[illegible] Eunice Winstead Johns [illegible] Mrs. Johns, her [illegible] mother-in-law, taught her to make [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

"I'd rather she'd stayed to home, but what's done is did. Her an' Charlie is married, and nobody's goin' to try to untie the knot. But I'm beat if I know what fur they went and done it."

"PAYIN' NO MIND"

Twenty-two-year Charlie Johns, the beleaguered bridegroom of [illegible], paused in [illegible] to remark:

"I ain't payin' no mind to what they're doin' down to the legislature nor what folks is sayin'. Ain't no new law goin' to change things now.

"Me an' Eunice is married for keeps, and I reckon I can look after her 'thout no help from nobody."

[illegible]

[illegible] enacted [illegible] marriage [illegible] that [illegible] girl may be married hereafter in Tennessee until she has reached the age of 16.

The bill passed the Senate without a dissenting vote and was considered certain also to pass the House unanimously.

"GUESS IT'S ALL RIGHT"

[illegible]

Said "paw" Johns:

"All little girls likes to play keepin' house. That's 'bout all she can do. But so long as she thinks she' helpin', I guess it's all right."

The bridegroom's [illegible] Lee [illegible], prominent businessman of [illegible]ersville, paid a visit to [illegible]. Emerging from the [illegible] cabin with a baffled expression, he said:

"I told Charlie to let me take her on into town and I'd send her to school with my boy, but he wouldn't listen. Said he guessed he could take care of his own wife."

$1,000,000 Raised By Birthday Balls

Washington, Feb. 5 (US)—Last Saturday's nationwide dances in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday probably will yield more than a million dollars for the fight on infantile paralysis.

So the President was informed by Carl Byoir, director of the benefit celebrations.

A large part of the money will be used for medical research and for relief of crippled children in their communities. Thirty per cent will go to the Warm Springs, Ga., Foundation.

Celia Rogers Plans Bridal In Newton

MISS CELIA M. ROGERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Rogers of West Newton, has completed the plans for her wedding to Francis B. Turner, son of Mrs. Edith M. Turner of Waltham.

The Rev. Herbert Hitchens will perform the quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday afternoon, February 13.

Only the members of the two families will attend the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception for a few friends.

Miss Rogers will be attended by her little niece, Lynne Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogers. Norman Turner will be his brother's best man. There will be no other attendants.

On their return from a vacation in Bermuda Mr. Turner and his bride will live in Newton Center.

B. U. Choral Group Off on Dixie Tour

You don't have to be a football player at Boston University to travel around the country. All you have to be able to do is sing.

If the truth be known, the B. U. Seminary Singers of the School of Theology could put the Terrier gridmen to shame when it comes to mileage.

The choral group, under the direction of Professor James R. Houghton, was to leave today for a 5000 mile trip through the South.

Composed of 40 male voices, the B. U. Seminary Singers is one of the largest choral groups in the country, and is the only one which gives concerts outside of the state.

On its swing through Dixie, the singing Theologs will visit 18 outstanding Methodist-Episcopal churches, where they will present a program of sacred music ranging from the earliest-known Gregorian chants to works by present day composers.

FUND Gifts at 76 P. C.

$1,073,770 STILL NEEDED

At the noon luncheon [illegible] Chairman Robert Cutler [illegible] that the contribution figure now stands at $3,186,[illegible] 76 per cent of $4,[illegible] quota.

[illegible]

Small Gifts

He said in part:

"Many subscribers have already been sending in additions to their original pledges.

Others who made cash gifts when first approached now are pledging additional amounts to be paid at intervals throughout the year.

"These givers have obviously been thinking over actual needs to be met by the Community Fund. They have realized the obligation of making increases when possible. They thought again and gave more.

"I know there are hundreds of other givers who would do the same, if they were solicited again.

"No reason now remains for our splendid hospitals and other vital human services to lack adequate support. When our people know the needs they will care and they will give.

"It is up to the solicitors to make these needs clear and to make equally clear the fact that everybody, according to his means, has this responsibility to share.

"It will be possible to oversubscribe our $4,160,000 by the essential margin only if there is prompt and increased response within the next few days throughout the Greater Boston area."

[illegible]

"I feel I'd have better luck myself," he said, "if I did my part in this drive for men and women who are really out of luck [illegible] It's all I can spare today. But I'll add to it as soon as I'm on a payroll."

CONFER TODAY ON AIR SAFETY

Washington, Feb. 5 (US)—Representatives of 23 major commercial air lines today were in conference with army, navy and commerce officials to discuss measures to prevent future disasters.

Spurred to action by the fatal crashes during the past weeks in which more than a score of persons were killed, the Federal Bureau of Aeronautics is determined to adopt radical safety measures, it was indicated.

The chief topic of discussion during the opening session of the three-day meet was the radio range by means of which airplanes are automatically guided through foggy weather and the blackness of night.

Experts of Secretary of Commerce Roper's research laboratory revealed that an entirely different radio range from that now in use was nearing perfection.

LADIES, FOXES CRASH SWANKY CLUB

Washington, Feb. 5 (US)—Ladies and foxes will presently crash the country's most exclusive club.

The organization whose membership is limited to 100 of the nation's leading Democrats is the famous Jefferson Islands Club, "33 miles as the crow flies from the White House," on two sylvan isles in Chesapeake Bay.

President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead are charter members. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, is its president.

Organized in 1929, the club has come to serve as a sort of sanctuary for prominent Democrats where problems of party and government can be discussed informally without dangers of leaks.

"There is no telephone on the [illegible] women have been [illegible] very infrequently to visit the clubhouse.

But [illegible] the spring [illegible] to [illegible] the ladies [illegible] [illegible] committee said [illegible]

"We've had so much fun ourselves down there fishing, shooting, swimming, chatting and resting, we thought we ought to give our ladies a chance.

"In the spring at our annual June meeting we propose to take up the subject of ladies and to set aside certain days of the week when wives may have the entire place to themselves. The men will have to stay away."

Canadian Leader Sees Strike Vote

Montreal, Feb. 5 (INS)—A majority of 98 per cent of the 117,000 Canadian [illegible] affected [illegible] will vote in favor of a general [illegible] Howard B. Chase [illegible]

"There is no doubt that at least this number will vote 'yes' on the ballot," he said, "and I would not be surprised if the vote is unanimous."

Bridge

When Not To Hold Up

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

It is the height of folly to "hold up" an Ace on every occasion that the defenders open a suit not too well guarded by the declarer and his dummy.

Players who have seen the splendid results accruing to many hold-up plays are too prone to apply this device indiscriminately.

"Circumstances alter cases" to a greater degree in Bridge than in any other game of [illegible] that I know of. Consider today's hand:

South dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

North: ♠ K 9 [illegible] A [illegible] ♣ K [illegible]

West: ♠ A 7 [illegible] ♣ 9 5

East: ♠ [illegible] ♣ Q J 10

South: ♠ Q J 10 4 ♡ A 9 ◇ K Q 8 ♣ A 7 6 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

[illegible]

West [illegible] and East [illegible] King [illegible] with the spade Ace?

To guide him in deciding whether or not to hold up the first Ace, declarer could upon the Rule of Eleven. West's lead [illegible] there were five higher cards out[illegible] declarer's own [illegible]

FACING DISASTER

[illegible] and whether or not declarer held up [illegible] three [illegible]

If the King were allowed to [illegible] and then if the spade Ace were [illegible] West's [illegible] three remaining hearts. But if the Ace [illegible] and the spade Ace were [illegible]

If East had the spade Ace [illegible] West would [illegible]

"Then that's all right," she said. "You'll be able to put it over with a clear conscience, although as Mary says you'll probably have an unpleasant session with Junior. But now that you've decided, is there anything more before the meeting?"

"Not a thing," I returned, smiling.

"Then Madam President," Katherine intoned formally, "I move we adjourn."

Colored Fan Shocks Fight Commission

FOR SHEER NAIVETY THE COLORED newspaper man who asked the New York Boxing Commission to order a refund of $16 50, the amount he paid for a ringside seat to see Bob Pastor box Joe Louis, is an all time top. He should know that the fight promoters take but never give anything back. The young Negro appeared as a self-styled "fan," thereby nonplussing the New York Commission, who had only the vaguest notion of the genus "fan" and never before in history having been asked to consider its rights in prize ring matters.

The colored plaintiff said, inasmuch as he purchased admission to what was advertised as a contest and which turned out to be a runaway evasion by Pastor, he had been defrauded and wants his money back. The New York Commission, through its spokesman, General John J. Phelan, said he would have to institute civil suit and prove malfeasance or monkey business.

Narragansett Go-Getter

AS AN ENERGETIC GO-GETTER WALTER O'HARA'S offer to house the Kentucky Derby at his Narragansett track, was less in the spirit of flood helpfulness than the knowledge that it would bring a wealth of free lineage in the sport pages. No sport producer is faster on the uptake or so brisk in snatching opportunity's fetlock than Walter. He knew, of course, that the Kentucky Derby could not be the Kentucky Derby at any other track than Churchill Downs, amid the old homestead atmosphere of honeysuckle and columbine.

[illegible] The people who attend the Kentucky Derby [illegible] the actual race which takes only a few minutes [illegible] they assemble for days in advance to sniff the atmosphere of Horse Heaven and rub elbows with the most picturesque people to be found this side of a cheese dream.

Col. Ruppert Fortifies Bankroll

DICKERING WITH BABE RUTH IN THE LATTER'S annual salary holdups, used to be fun for Colonel Jake Ruppert, who never shed his shekels grudgingly to Mr. Baseball. But the concerted yell of the World Champion Yankees for larger wage lifts this winter, has irritated the old brewer to the point where he is yelling back. Gehrig has rejected the $31,000 bid and asks $40,000. Tony Lazzeri wants $15,000, Joe DiMaggio demands $17,500. Jake Powell, Lefty Gomez, and Red Rolfe ask boosts ranging from $3500 to $7500.

The baseball players move on the same merchandising theory as the picture painters and sculptors. A work of art is worth what its creator can get. There the similarity ceases. Because in baseball an athlete is paid on the basis of his previous season's standard, often getting more for a poor season than for a previous good one. But try to cut a major league athlete, to whom salary matters must move only one way, and that up.

Colonel Ruppert is paying the penalty usual after winning a World Series, which is why more than one club owner has expressed the hope that his club will finish second or third, but not first, because it would cost too much in money and disgruntlement.

Two Mighty Paws

With These Dukes Casey Hopes to Flatten Clark

Les Canadiens Bow To Bruins, 6-2

Montreal, Feb. 5 (INS)—Turning on a powerful offensive that swept all opposition aside, the Boston Bruins routed Les Canadiens, 6 to 2, in a bruising National Hockey League game before 6000 fans here.

It took Bruins only a minute and 58 seconds to get No. 5 in the third period, Crowley setting up Getliffe in scoring position with a long [illegible] pass. Getliffe took it on the [illegible] and his shot never left the [illegible] corner. With five minutes [illegible] Canadiens steamed in on the Bruins [illegible] at Thompson from all angles.

Thompson dived into Mantha's shot and the puck curled up and over the net with the goalie flat on the ice. But Canadiens couldn't [illegible] any offensive edge for any length of time as first the Getliffe-Sands-Crowley line, then the Wiseman and Goldsworthy-Beattie trio, peppered shots at Cude. The little Canadien pulled off a half dozen sensational stops as the Bruins [illegible] kept coming at him in breakaway plays.

Bruins slammed the puck into the net in the last minute, but it bounced out and the teams went on playing. The goal apparently was not being counted. Sands barged through alone with 14 seconds to play and golfed in the sixth Bruin goal. In the last split second Joliat poked home a double relay from Blake and Siebert.

Pat Manning, in addition to handling the Tech freshmen and 150 pound crews, is also the Beaver rigger, and has the Pocock shell, one of the best in the country, ready for the initial launching of the season. The shell has been completely re-rigged.

Heavy Title Fight Date Decided

Chicago, Feb. 5 (UP)—Contracts [illegible] the heavyweight [illegible] James [illegible] Braddock and Joe Louis next [illegible] will be signed [illegible] Mon[illegible]

Negotiations for the battle were concluded here between representatives of the two fighters and the promoters. The bout will be held either at Soldiers Field or Comiskey Park.

Julian Black, co-manager of Louis and Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Club of New York which has an option on Joe's services, were at the meeting and settled their differences.

The fight is being promoted by the Sporting Club of Illinois, headed by Sheldon Clark, wealthy sportsman with Joe Foley as matchmaker.

Louis will be here Monday to sign. Braddock and his manager, Joe Gould, plan to come by plane. In signing, Braddock and Gould will be disregarding the contract under which Braddock is supposed to fight for Madison Square Garden of New York June 13.

Ramey Guns for Ambers

Michigan Boy Too Good for Rawson

At the finish of a battle that bristled from the first gong until Referee Jack Watson and Judges Bates and Shaughnessy cast their ballots for Ramey, Promoter Eddie Mack stated that he'd continue from Arlington, weighing 136 [illegible] to dicker for a Ramey-Ambers bout here.

Ramey, at 134 pounds, proved too elusive for Rawson, local favorite. The visitor seldom gave Rawson a chance to get set to toss a punch, keeping on top of him or weaving to make Tommy miss frequently.

Ramey was awarded six of the rounds, Rawson three and one was called even. Rawson made a furious finish in the tenth, but he was too far behind to cause any variation in the verdict.

Roy Chapman, 160, Allentown, Pa., beat Eddie Rossi, 168, Everett, by a technical knockout when Rossi suffered a sprained wrist and could not respond for the fifth round of a scheduled six. Buster Carroll, 147, Lowell, won a unanimous six round decision over Joe Lemieux, 119, New Bedford. Lou Lima, 139, New Bedford, and Pat O'Brien, 133, Dorchester, went to a four-round draw; Eddie Forest, 140, New Bedford, stopped Jack Fournier, 140, Newport, Vt., in the third of a scheduled four.

Record Score

Providence, Feb. 5—Brown's hockey team defeated Springfield College, 12 to 2, here to score its fourth victory of the season. The score was the largest a Brown team has compiled in years.

Mat Results

Strength Opposed to Skill In Charity Wrestling Show

MUNICIPAL FUND WILL BENEFIT

By JACK CONWAY

Clark and Casey have each scored more than 300 consecutive victories without losing a fall. These famous grapplers have now been brought together in the same ring in a tussle that is certain to furnish intense thrills.

Tonight's bout will bring together a skillful wrestler and the strongest man to ever step on to a mat. Clark has more wrestling polish than Casey. He displayed his remarkable skill at the Garden as he won from Danno O'Mahony and Nick Lutze. He believes the same mat wizardry will now enable him to conquer Casey and then defeat Yvon Robert in a tussle for the championship.

In a special bout, Cy Williams, the tough ex-football player from Florida, meets Nick Lutze, while the semi-final has Cliff Olsen, who broke Robert's leg, against Dick Stahl, the big German. Preliminaries include Rube Wright, giant Texan, vs. Art Legrand, Mike Mazurki vs. Wally Dusek, and Charley Strack vs. Pat Reilly.

The first bout will enter the ring at 8.15, while the main event will go on about 10 o'clock.

Graden Card

George Clark vs. Steve Casey.
SPECIAL BOUT
Cy Williams vs. Nick Lutze.
SEMIFINAL

Governor Visits Sports Show

Governor Hurley, attending the New England Sportsmen's Show at Mechanics Building, was presented two bullet-riddled "Annie Oakleys," not just everyday free tickets.

George Keyes of Boston, former national pistol champion, shot two passes from the hand of May Ross and gave the bullet-punched pasteboards to the Governor.

The Governor expressed interest in the exhibit of the Massachusetts department of conservation, which, in a miniature setting of hills, trees, lakes and brooks, illustrates the relation between a modern forestry policy and the protection and propagation of game and fish.

Booms Beer For Players | Scribes' Dinner Rated Tops

By JACK CONWAY

There was one smart waiter as the Boston Chapter, Baseball Writers' Association tossed a swanky dinner in the Swiss Room of Arthur Grace's Copley-Plaza Hotel. He brought some more beer when he paraded through the room with his ice cream tray illuminated like a Christmas tree.

Mr. Boston

COLLINS FOR YOUNG PLAYERS

Eddie Collins told his listeners at the baseball dinner that Tom Yawkey didn't care what anybody thought of the way he spent his dough for ball players. That's his own business as long as he didn't ask any of us to help him cover his checks.

Joe Cashman, president of the Boston Chapter, Baseball Writers' Association, made a swell speech. He must have tuned up his tonsils in the recent campaign. It was the first time I ever heard Joe do a Daniel Webster. Anyhow Joe gave a large welcome to Vito Tamulis, Elbie [illegible] Ted Olson, Hugh Mulcahy, Tommy Fanden, George Tebbetts, Cy Perkins and Bob Weir. He even had a good word for Umpire Bill [illegible]

A pair of games have been added to the program with Walpole taking on Quincy High and B. C. High still after its first win, battling Watertown.

The Needham-Wellesley affair promises the big excitement of the night. These teams met the opening of the league season in an exciting game that ended in a 2 to 2 deadlock. Since then both have come along at a speedy rate to finish the season one, two.

Needham will present the highest scoring line in the loop as Ed Romano, Dwight Ellis and March Finnucerath [illegible] Romano's three goals last week enabled him to gain a tie for top place in the individual scoring race while Ellis was but three points behind, landing third place. Close Pin Battles In Brookline Loop

By ED COGSWELL

Nothing is left amiss in securing the comfort and sociability of the present day bowlers, a far jump from the period when a single light was counted sufficient for the players and spectators.

It is nip and tuck between four of the teams in the Brookline League, which [illegible] crowd will be on hand [illegible] cheer on their favorites. [illegible] Tux Club, M. C. O. F. and Cashman Motor Club are the contending factors. So close is bunched in the league standing are these teams that not one can afford to drop even a single string.

"CUSHION" HUNTERS WEEPING

By BOB CONSIDINE
Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, Feb. 5—The boys who write the Rod and Gun articles have commented lately that the closed season on a great many divisions of our native fowl has resulted in a surprising increase in the bird census.

Birds Slaughtered

[illegible] a lot of the [illegible] men and a few of their sadistic feminine pals hunting was more fashionable than ever. The [illegible] of a good time was to sit on one of the folding golf canes on a piece of dry land, and a pearl-handled fool-proof gun at some inquisitive duck at five paces and blow it into that quiet eternity that is reserved for things of rare grace and beauty. And then get back to the duplex tent for a cocktail before dinner.

[illegible]

But it was strictly a contest strictly the work of men who knew they were gambling on being [illegible] every time they showed their [illegible] the woods.

Gloating

The deer had nothing. If that is sport then I am going out some day and interview that greatest sportsman, the guy who stands with the sledge hammer on the runway at the abbatoir and bats down the steers as they shuffle by.

It leads me to believe that some such group as Westbrook Pegler recommended years ago has been formed. It was suggested that a group of anti-hunters form a club and go out shooting at the hunters to put a little spirit of competition into the game. Special prizes were to be offered for shooting hunters with long range guns and walrus mustaches.

I wish the club would come out in the open and reveal itself, for there must be a lot of people in the country who would like to join or at least send fan mail to the recording secretary.

FRED HOEY Writes:

Hello Everybody, This Is Fred Hoey Speaking.

The late Nick Flatley once remarked, "If young kids continue to get into big league baseball we'll have to add lollypops and bedtime stories to their daily diet and routine."

FRED HOEY

This facetious remark by Nick was not meant to be derogatory, but rather to call attention to the wonderful opportunities that are before our youths.

Professional baseball being what it is, clean, wholesome and profitable, it is more and more attracting the attention of parents of promising young ball players.

When a youngster comes out of high school and tries out with a big league team the nickname "Schoolboy" invariably is pinned on him. Waite Hoyt at 16 left Erasmus High School in Brooklyn to join the Giants. Ever after that he was known as the schoolboy wonder. He is now [illegible] years. Sort of a perpetual schoolboy.

Harold Janvrin hopped from Boston [illegible] High to the Red Sox. He was known as Chade Harold. [illegible] however, wasted a year on the Red Sox bench. [illegible] couldn't be sent to a minor [illegible] second year Janvrin was sent to [illegible] edges were knocked off. He [illegible] Red Sox to star at second base.

Mel Ott, a sensational 16-year-old catcher in Gretna, La., was signed by the New York Giants. McGraw converted Mel into an outfielder. Not a bad ball player today, this Ott.

Bob Feller, the amazing 17-year-old fire baller with Cleveland, who fanned 17 Athletics in one game to tie the modern record held by Dizzy Dean, is still a student in Van Meter, Ia., high school. And he's drawing down $10,000 yearly. Not enough to take for a high school senior.

[illegible] Rowe is smart. He didn't go direct from high [illegible] Instead he signed with Beaumont of the Texas League [illegible] under Manager Del Baker, now Mickey Cochrane's right eye with the Detroit Tigers. When this young giant—he stands 6.4 and weighs 201, reported to Detroit, he was [illegible]

IT MAY BE "SCHOOLBOY" HERMAN

[illegible] writers are unkind enough to suggest that the sobriquet Schoolboy be pinned on Babe Herman, because of his childish actions in the field. We'll promise not to call him Schoolboy if Babe will promise not to rattle hits off National Field fences with those golf swings of his.

Take Phil Cavaretta, the Chicago Cubs first baseman. This [illegible] when he reported to the Cubs. He was a [illegible] American Legion competition.

The Legion [illegible] is doing excellent work in developing [illegible] Here in New England we have several [illegible] made their mark as members of Junior [illegible] Legion teams.

[illegible] wisely entered college where they further their education and at the same time receive high class instruction from the great staff of coaches directing college baseball [illegible] New England.

There are boys in Milford, Springfield, Lynn, Manchester, N. H., Portland, Me., Sanford, Me., and down through Connecticut and Rhode Island, as well as in Vermont who have been stars in legion baseball.

Who knows, in a few years we may be watching these boys on big league diamonds.

[illegible] our Boston teams there is Bobby [illegible] second baseman from San Diego. He [illegible] American [illegible]

[illegible] for Sweeney. If a kid has the stuff [illegible] We confess, however, we'd be confounded [illegible] Bartholomew step out on the field in a Red Sox [illegible]

• • •

The Red Sox had finished an exhibition game with Louisville that afternoon. The game was played in Madisonville, Ky., nearest approach to one of those frontier towns of wild west fiction, we ever saw.

Everybody was raving about the work of the Louisville left [illegible]

Well [illegible] ought to go up in the big league pretty soon. You certainly looked swell out there today, we observed.

"Thank you, sir," with a rich Kentucky drawl, "I allow I've got aplenty to learn before I go up."

LEWIS HANEY SAYS:

President Becomes NON-COMMITTAL ON Important Issues

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, Feb. 5—Yesterday, we saw some reason for hope that the nation will escape being wrecked on either of the two collectivist rocks—Fascism or Communism.

The average American considers that he is trying an experiment (just as he might take an unwonted whirl in a gay night club), and is not absolutely committed to New Dealism.

He is stalling—stalling on the utility question, stalling on the Constitution, stalling on the sit-down strike.

This is significant because it means: first, that our "leader" is one who follows; second, that we are not likely to plunge hastily into fatal decisions.

Aided by the foregoing situation, I believe that politically effective resistance to collectivism will eventually arise.

One source of resistance, of course, lies in the taxpayers. With taxes taking over one-fifth of our incomes, further increases in taxation are likely to bring rebellion. The increased cost of living caused by indirect taxes may be a factor.

Then, too, there are all the savers, and those who live on fixed incomes. They have long been ready to rebel against the government waste, which brings inflation and thus reduces their purchasing power.

Now we are building up a new class of government pensioners. Do you think the beneficiaries of old age or unemployment reserves are going to want their few dollars cut in two every time a sprendthrift government wants to write down its debts.

A radical government can't keep the voters sweet without strewing "money" around. But, finally, the time comes when the voters say, "we want real money."

Sometimes we seem to forget, not only that there are scientific laws such as the law of supply and demand, but also that there are governmental laws on our statute books.

More than that, the average American in his heart favors these laws, and has a deep-seated belief in fair play. Class discrimination, vote buying, sit-down strikes and monopolies (whether of capital or labor) will not be tolerated forever.

My belief is that we face real dangers but that we will react from collectivism in time to prevent falling into it.

The great dangers are: (1) the formation of a radical labor party, aided and abetted by the President of the United States (2) the danger that the destruction of the effectiveness of the Supreme Court may lead to dictatorship; (3) the danger that so many people will become demoralized by being made dependent upon the federal government that a politically controlled work relief army will become permanent.

But one extreme begets the other. We must in due course react against the extremes of collectivism.

In the past, there was too much bad speculation and financial manipulation, and too much unfairness in competition. Desirable forms of administrative regulation by central government were too little developed. Most of us were too quick to say that when a man went down it was his own fault.

Now we are in extreme reaction against this. We have plunged too far to the opposite extreme. But the corrective reaction to this extreme will come.

One sure thing is this: There is no Utopia. Troubles are bound to come. Once the politicians have to assume responsibility for positive control, and their plans go wrong, they will be ousted.

So I believe that our democracy will be purged of vote buying and mob rule, and that we will return to the test of individual choice and individual merit; not on the principle of equal doles, but on the principle of equal opportunity for individuals to do what is in them to do.

ECCLES Technique STUDIED

INFLATION CONTROL

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1937, Universal Service

New York, Feb. 5—The counter-inflationary moves engineered under the direction of M. S. Eccles, chairman of the governing board of the Federal Reserve System, is reversing the long term trend in the direction of multiplying the amount of bank credit which can be created out of a given amount of reserves.

Between the passage of the National Banking Act of 1863 and the adoption of the Federal Reserve Act in 1913, the instrument for expanding bank credit out of a given unit of reserves was increased by about two-thirds.

The Federal Reserve act then doubled the multiplier, and laid the legal basis for a great increase in the superstructure of credit. The original safeguard of basing expansion of credit on self liquidating commercial paper was gradually whittled away by necessities of government financing and other exigencies.

Until under the new laws, giving the Federal Reserve authorities the discretionary right to raise member bank reserve requirements, monetary control rested first on efforts to make funds dear or cheap through changing the rediscount rate. Nearly 14 years ago this instrument of control was supplemented by open market policy, which was designed to affect the total supply of bank credit.

The technique which Mr. Eccles is using tends to retrace the long term movement in extending the expansibility of reserves.

Until the excess reserves are by these moves brought down to reasonable proportions, it has been felt that control through discount rates and open market policies would be ineffective.

The Federal Reserve, through its new control over margins, also has wide authority to prevent the drift of bank credit into speculative channels.

Apart from short term adjustments, it is necessary to proceed in the spirit of fact finding to determine the actual credit needs of trade and agriculture.

In the past, banking has been somewhat corrupted by a tendency to use bank credit for the transfer of capital assets as well as for self liquidating commercial loans. Once a clear distinction is made, the banking authorities will know how much bank credit at the maximum should be created out of a given amount of reserves. The invitation toward over extension of credit can then be nipped in the bud.

Such frozen or capital loans ought to be made savings banks and other institutions not subject to the immediate whims of their demand depositors.

Although the floods entail great human hardship and property loss, it cannot be regarded as a bear argument. It involves but a temporary interruption of the normal flow of goods and services, and, after normal has been restored, there will be a rush for rehabilitation activities.

FOOD Price Rise LOOMS

EFFECT OF '36 HARVEST

The estimates made by the Department of Agriculture in December on the size of the crop yields in 1936 will probably not undergo much revision and the figures may consequently be taken as representative of the actual 1936 harvest, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

As the result of the drouth last summer, only four of 21 major crops were larger than in 1935.

These crops were rice, cotton, sugar beets and pears. The wheat crop showed practically no change. The 16 crops which were smaller than in 1935 showed decreases ranging from 10.0 per cent for tobacco to 59.3 per cent for flaxseed.

• • •

The drouth in 1936, however, was not as serious as the drouth in 1934. Only five crops, potatoes, sweet potatoes, buckwheat, apples and hops were smaller than in 1934.

The combined yield of the three chief food crops, hay, corn and oats, amounted to 125,569,000 tons in 1936 as against only 108,428,000 tons in 1934, although the 1936 yield was considerably smaller than the 1935 harvest of 173,178,000 tons.

• • •

While the supply of food in 1937 will be larger than in 1935, it will be considerably smaller than it was last year. This does not necessarily mean, however, that the level of food prices will be much higher this year than in 1936. If the current inflationary movement receives a set-back as now seems possible, such a development will tend to offset the price-boosting effect of the curtailment in the supply of food.

Gas Company Revenues Gain

Gross revenues of manufactured and natural gas companies for 11 months ended November 30 totaled $700,835,800, an increase of 6.1 per cent over the like 1935 period, according to American Gas Association.

Domestic revenues amounted to $474,237,900 for the 11 months, against $465,042,700 in the similar period of 1935 a gain of 2 per cent. Revenues from industrial and commercial gas users aggregated $226,497,900 in the 11 months, a rise of 15.8 per cent over 1935.

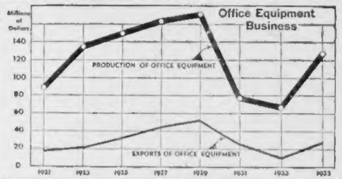
Office Equipment



SALES GAIN

'Deal' Policies Are Aiding Factor

Here is the production record of one industry that has enjoyed marked benefits under the policies of the present administration.

Practically every one of the New Deal measures passed has stimulated the sales of office equipment.

The Social Security Act will require the government and private business to purchase huge quantities of office equipment. Passage of the act will be especially beneficial to manufacturers of filing cabinets because of the enormous number of records to be kept.

Biennial Census

Data taken from the biennial census of manufacturers compiled by the Department of Commerce shows that the total value of office equipment produced in 1935 amounted to $128,596,984.

The government compiles data on manufacturers only every other year, but it is estimated that production in 1935 was the largest since 1929.

In 1935 the total value of office equipment exported was $27,038,784, compared with $53,754,331 in 1929. The United Kingdom is the largest customer for our office equipment.

Wall Street Sidelights

New York, Feb. 5—The thirteen shippers' regional advisory boards, notoriously conservative in forecasting freight traffic, last month estimated freight loadings in the first quarter of this year were 9.2 per cent above the like 1936 quarter.

Observers were quick to point out that at the time the shippers made their estimates, freight loadings were running between 13 and 14 per cent over a year ago, and that indications intimated an enlarging of the gap of gain before the quarter was ended. The shippers could not have foreseen the Ohio river floods, nor could they have completely anticipated the labor troubles of this quarter, including the General Motors strikes, forecasters assert. Yet, currently, it is indicated that the conservatism of the shippers in their first quarter forecast may bring their estimates close to actual figures. It is interesting to note that the shippers, while forecasting freight gains in eleven of the thirteen regional districts, predicted a decrease of 1.8 per cent in loadings compared with a year ago, for the Ohio valley territory.

Relief Rolls and Traction Income

Figures just published showing the nation's urban traction industry was handling a larger ratio of total passenger traffic were taken in some quarters to emphasize the importance of relief money in the present economic recovery. The point was made that as long as people remain on relief they will be unable to buy automobiles and therefore must continue to patronize low-fare transportation service in their daily travels.

• • •

Time Money Rate Rise Expected

Banking authorities expressed the belief that a rise in time money rates was a more likely possibility in the near future than in the call loan quotation. This expectation was based on the fact that many outstanding time loans mature around the date when the maximum increase in reserve requirements takes effect May 1. If out-of-town institutions are forced to draw heavily against their New York balances, local correspondents may temporarily find themselves short of reserves. The call money rate will probably remain at the prevailing level until after the time loan situation is adjusted. Time money was held at 1¼ per cent since May 11 last year. Prior to that date it was 1 per cent since the preceding October.

D. & H. Denies Central Sales

Reports widespread in Wall Street that Delaware & Hudson Co. has sold a third of its 10 per cent interest in New York Central Railroad, were vigorously denied by officials of the company. The Street could do nothing but accept the denials. It was recalled, however, that back in 1932 Delaware & Hudson also vigorously denied it was acquiring New York Central stock, when concurrently J. P. Morgan & Co., was acquiring 495,000 Central common shares for the D. & H. in the open market.

At annual meeting of Delaware & Hudson, stockholders have frequently criticized the company's purchase of the Central stock for $11,065,000, even though the market value of the 10 per cent Central interest now exceeds $21,000,000. The Central stock has paid no dividends since it was acquired, while the bonds sold from the D. & H. portfolio to provide funds for the Central purchase brought in income of $500,000 annually.

Packers' Prospect Best in Decade

Indicated first-quarter earnings of major meat packing companies confirm earlier expectations of broad recovery in profit producing ability this fiscal year.

For the first three months ending January 30 the major packers will have obtained income yields equal to or better than the like 1935-1936 period. This comparison is on basis of restoration of processing taxes for last fiscal year—paid in November and December only—to the income for first quarter ended Jan. 30, 1936.

As the industry now stands, with considerably enhanced inventories, more economical operations and lower cost capital, present prospect for the full fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1937, is the best in about a decade.

Demand for State Street Investment

As in the previous instance, when it offered stockholders 49,942 shares in ratio of one new for each nine held, State Street Investment Corp. experienced a strong demand from its shareholders when it offered the latter 2387 shares not taken up under the first offer.

Subscriptions were received for a total of 21,739 shares. The management has given each applicant one share and has allotted remaining shares on a basis of about one for each nine sought.

Franc Weakness London Feature

New York, Feb. 5 (INS)—Pressure on leading foreign securities was renewed in foreign exchange markets today.

A feature in the London market was the continued weakness in francs as confidence in that exchange was weakened by reports of the Paris stabilization fund and renewed purchases of gold from the Bank of France. Chief fear is that the capital flight from France will be renewed.

Loew's "Extra"

Loew's, Inc., declared an extra dividend of 50 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common, both payable March 31 to stock of record March 12.

WORKING CLASS

Better HOMES BADLY Needed

By B. C. FORBES

In every city I have been visiting, complaints are rife about scarcity of attractive, modern homes for working-class people.

Workers increasingly resent having to live in antiquated, more or less dilapidated houses not containing modern conveniences.

So far as I have been able to ascertain, government loans for home building have gone to low salaried and small business people rather than to wage earners.

• • •

And, of course, since depression overtook industrial and other corporations, very little, if anything, has been done by them in the way of furnishing funds for building workmen's homes.

Most managements have had enough on their hands wrestling with keeping their plants going, in maintaining even moderate payrolls.

On my last visit to Britain nothing impressed me more than the amount of home building for work folks. Activity there has far transcended anything instituted here.

At first government funds were the chief incentive. But later private enterprise stepped in and tremendously broadened the building program.

I found the homes extremely attractive. The kitchens and everything else were designed to make housekeeping easy and pleasant—although some of the conveniences demanded here, such as electric refrigeration, were not provided.

• • •

On obstacle to duplication here of a gigantic home-building program is the high wage scale demanded by building workmen. British masons, carpenters, plumbers, painters, etc., receive nothing like the wage rates current here.

If ways and means could be devised in this country to launch home-building at a cost within the means of the average worker, what a boom would become feasible! It is not enough to provide capital, mortgages, at low rates. The cost of building materials and the cost of labor enter vitally into the problem.

If only arrangements could be made in various cities to guarantee building artisans a decent annual wage, they doubtless would be willing to lower the hourly wage rate now demanded. Here is a fertile field for "economic planning."

• • •

President John A. Brown, of Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, a Standard Oil enterprise, states:

The great majority of employees received increases during the past year after conferences between the management and employee representatives.

MUNICIPAL BONDS

Brokers REPORT PRICE Decline

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

While there is still a glut of money seeking investment this week's decline in the municipal bond market strongly indicates that it is no longer for hire at "sweat shop" wages.

In the principal municipal bond marts in New York, Philadelphia and Boston highest grade municipals are easier, which is just another way of saying yields have increased.

This situation is not confined to the shorter tax anticipation warrants alone. Bonds up to five years' maturity have also shown a tendency to ease. This development just about makes the verdict of the short term money market unanimous. Money owners want a fair wage and the higher rates on acceptances, the lowering of short term government bond prices and the advance in high grade paper rates is all that is needed to convince the skeptics. Who are denied rebuttal running along the lines of, "just a coincidence following the raising of reserve requirements," by the very unanimity of the short term market.

Financial observers here, there and everywhere are trying to answer the riddle of U. S. Steel's likely plan for issuing new stock. So we might just as well put in our vote with the help of some Boston brokerage friends. A new issue of 4 per cent preferred stock convertible into 1½ shares of common is probable. It will exceed the old in order that the company may increase its working capital position. This provides for the possibility a goodly number of old preferred holders, whose stock is non-callable, will accept the company's offer for tenders of their stock in exchange. Now as for the ratio of exchange we feel it will be one for one. The reason: present prices for the common and preferred are almost in the exact ratio of 1½ to 1.

* * *

Notebook: All the above, if true, still fails to explain, in this writer's mind, the rise of 33 1-3 per cent in the price of Steel common in 28 trading sessions . . . Nor does the estimate of $12 per share earnings this year on the common satisfy us . . . To begin with, it could be cut down sharply if old preferred holders decide to keep their stock and as a result prior charges increase considerably . . . American Crystal Sugar is again in favor with chartists . . . Statisticians who have studied the Tidewater Oil situation say the company should cover the dividend requirements on its new preferred by a comfortable margin this year which suggests a 1937 gain in common earnings above the $1.25 per share estimated for last year.

* * *

The rails hold the key to intermediate market action. Industrials have apparently completed a usual trick of theirs by running away, while carriers practically stood still. In order for the market to develop a unified picture, the backward group should now come forward. A turn suggesting such a course has been made. But on Thursday the rails seemed to balk as they reached a resistance level comparable to 37 on the Dow-Jones index. We think this level extremely important and if it is overcome we will immediately put two-thirds of idle funds to work in rail shares. This will mean a position of 25 per cent liquidity will be maintained.

* * *

Boardroom Briefs: Estimators who feel that Southern Railway will experience a 10 per cent increase in gross also say that 35 per cent of the gain will be brought through to net . . . Which means something in the neighborhood of $4 per share on the common . . . Which is the reason it joins our list of favored rails . . . Others are New York Central, Atchison, Kansas City Southern, Southern Pacific and Great Northern . . . Worthington Pump is one of the most interesting situations we have run across in a long time . . . Sources said to be close to the company estimate full year net at $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 . . . Which means that after allowing for a contemplated addition of 100,000 shares of common and for the possible recapitalization plan common stock earnings will still reach between $5.50 and $7 per share . . . A nice practical example of "leverage."

Baldwin Bonds Soar 50 Points

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Baldwin Locomotive 6 per cent stamped bonds of 1938, ex-warrants, soared around 50 points in the bond market in the New York Curb Exchange today.

This burst of strength, financial circles said, reflected approval of the Baldwin reorganization plan late yesterday by the U. S. District Court at Philadelphia.

World Gold Output

World gold production, excluding Russia, during December totaled 2,408,000 fine ounces, against 2,371,000 in November, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Production during 1936 totaled 27,910,000 ounces, against 25,160,000 in 1935.

Comments of Brokers

There are few reasons to quarrel with the current behavior of the market. Speculators might as well ride with the tide, until there are signs it is beginning to ebb.—G. M.—P. Murphy & Co.

There is still room for a bullish demonstration following a clearing up of the motor labor situation. Would utilize such strength, if it appears soon, to lighten up accounts still further. —H. D. Comer—Paine, Webber & Co.

I feel that the store stocks, the oils, liquors and selected rails offer the safest trading media for the immediate future.—J. S. Wilson—Josephthal & Co.

We still believe that it is necessary to be prepared for a decline of intermediary proportions, following termination of the December movement which we feel is in process of being completed.—J. F. Molloy—Hornblower & Weeks.

The main trend, subject to irregular or moderate recessionary spells from time to time, continues to point upward.—J. S. Bache & Co.

HEAVY SELLING

Message SENDS STOCKS Lower

New York, Feb. 5—A heavy selling wave in which losses ran to more than 2 points in steels, motors and coppers with the high speed ticker five minutes behind was Wall Street's reaction to President Roosevelt's surprise message to Congress today.

U. S. Steel common lost over two points, then rallied a point, while Bethlehem Steel was down nearly 3 and other steels lagged. Chrysler and General Motors dropped 2 points each before meeting support, while Anaconda copper lost a point.

Case Threshing was up 4 points but Deere was down as much. Union Pacific tumbled 2 points in the rails. Consolidated Edison and Electric Power & Light lost a point each and Public Service of New Jersey over a point.

Oils and merchandising issues weakened but aviations bucked the trend, Boeing hitting a new high. Bonds were weaker. Grains were strong and cotton lower.

Supporting recovery forces was the week-end review of Dun & Bradstreet which figured retail distribution for the country as a whole was 10 to 15 per cent over the same 1936 week.

Increased volumes were attributed partly to lessening of threatening flood conditions. Clear weather and a drop in temperatures, it was said, also enabled merchants in many key cities to lift sales totals substantially. Rehabilitation programs, following receding of high waters, spread benefits to a number of industries.

Sterling, at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, was off 7-16 of a cent at $4.88⅞. The French franc was .00⅛ of a cent lower at 4.65 cents.

December Rail Net Increases

Class I railroads, excepting Louisville & Nashville Railroad, had aggregate net operating income in December of $68,742,292, against $44,378,662 in December, 1935, an increase of 54.9 per cent, I. C. C. bureau of statistics reported.

For 1936 the roads reported aggregate net operating income of $647,949,462, an increase of 33.6 per cent over the $485,039,653 reported for 1935.

Total operating revenues of the roads in December were $363,146,431, against $289,350,648 in December, 1935, an increase of 25.6 per cent.

Carloadings Off 1.6 P. C. in Week

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads reported today loadings of revenue freight for the week ending last Saturday totaled 659,790 cars.

This was a decrease of 10,586 cars, or 1.6 per cent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 37,900, or 6.1 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 62,829, or 10.5 per cent, compared with two years ago.

Baldwin Plan Approved

Philadelphia, Feb. 5 (AP)—Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson approved reorganization of the Baldwin Locomotive Works under section 77B of the federal bankruptcy laws, scaling down the company's indebtedness and providing working capital.

Passing on the plan yesterday, Judge Dickinson said the only objections "are made by some of the preferred stockholders on the ground it unduly favors the common stockholders, and by one common stockholder that it favors the preferred stockholders.

"They are largely outvoted by those whose interests are the same as their own and the arguments of each may be left to be answered by the arguments of the other."

The judge commented on market reaction to the plan in which bonds jumped from $80 to approximately $160 for every $100.

"Why a short term bond for $100 should sell for more than twice its redemption sum suggests a puzzle," he said. "If the possessor of the famous Alladin's lamp had known of this he would have hidden his diminished head and traded his old lamp for a new one."

Wall Street Hears

New York, Feb. 5 (INS)—That steel operations in the current quarter should average close to 80 per cent of capacity.

That 1936 profits of Pacific Telephone (PAC) were close to $8.25 a share, against $6.55 in 1935.

Politicians Fear the Truth

THE Tennessee state senate has passed a bill providing punishment for the publication of "any untruth" in the editorial columns of a newspaper.

The real intention of this bill, of course, as of all press censorship, is the INTIMIDATION of newspapers.

"What politicians fear is not untruth BUT TRUTH."

Hordes of parasitic politicians have fastened themselves upon the body politic.

They are fattening upon the blood they suck from the people in taxes. They do not want to be dislodged.

They want to fortify themselves against any effort by the public to remove them—of the public to purge itself of this parasitic plague, to get back to sound business principles in government.

Politicians, assuming power OVER THE PEOPLE, first call all men who oppose them liars.

It would lodge in the state the power to put the brand of untruth upon any opinion at variance with the will of the reigning rulers of the state.

The people of Tennessee, permitting this, would surrender all right to be informed regarding fraudulent, incompetent or wasteful practices in their state affairs.

PRENTICE COOPER, the single member of the Tennessee senate who voted against this dangerous measure, bluntly reminded his 29 colleagues that they inconsistently retain to themselves the right to "speak THEIR minds and not be called into question."

It is an alarming situation when 29 of 30 men charged with responsibility for good government vote AGAINST the following sound American principle voiced by Senator Cooper:

"There has been a tendency in this country to try to curb the press. I think absolute freedom both of the press and the radio is ESSENTIAL."

The Tennessee bill would close the most vital of these channels, the right of newspapers to present information or express opinions in conflict with the views or interests of those in control of government.

A "Sacred Union"

MOST typical of the spirit that has made America the proverbial "land of the free" were the resolutions adopted by the National Conference of Jews and Christians, of which Newton D. Baker is chairman.

This conference, composed of the leading ecclesiastics of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths, finds that the spread of racial and religious prejudices is a threat to those civil and religious rights guaranteed under our form of government.

The statement of these leaders of all faiths says:

"We of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, believing that these liberties and rights are based upon the principles of religion and are dependent for their perpetuation upon the cultivation of those principles, affirm our loyalty to these fundamentals of just government and express our confidence in the traditions of American life that have championed and applied them.

"In America we have and must maintain a land wherein people of different religious convictions and contrasting cultural traditions may live together in amity and mutual respect."

This "sacred union" of all faiths mobilized in defense of religious and civil freedom is one of the healthiest signs of the America of today.

Scouts to Hear Roosevelt

AS we have observed the working of the Boy Scout movement in our own and other communities, we have been impressed with two things. How practical it is, and how powerful its grip on a boy.

Boy Scout Week will open Sunday.

Boys here are eagerly awaiting the special message which President Roosevelt will broadcast to them on Monday. It would not be a bad idea for us older folks to listen to the words of wisdom which the President is sure to offer the boys.

Child Nuptials Possible

In Rhode Island, where common law prevails, a girl of twelve can marry a boy of fourteen if the parents give their consent.

Such laws have been on statute books for years, put there originally when the so-called Blue Laws were enacted.

That they have not been changed is due probably to the fact that child marriages take place only in the most unusual cases and consequently receive little publicity.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Feb. 5 — Thoughts while strolling: Overheard — "I dislike few people and he is all of them." Nice gesture: Jack Dempsey never smoking a cigar in the presence of children. Jimmy Durante streaking along with the usual unbuttoned overcoat. Wit on roller skates: Gilbert White. Top-imitation of the month: Courtney Ryley Cooper's of a fish. Grover Whalen has the nearest approach to the Hitler mustache hereabouts. Incongruity: Margaret Speaks sings. George Bellows' daughter, who posed for the famous "Jean" painting. Now a grown up lady.

O. O. McIntyre

Something for the news cameras: Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken in plain gingham. The middle-aged couples who dine at Schrafft's with the man you suspect lives alone next door. When a night club can snare Mistinguette and Sonja Henie the same evening, it's sure fire for picture publicity.

A magazine idea for someone on stooges who have carved careers — Sid Silvers, Patsy Kelly, Benny Baker and several more? No author tops Joseph Hergesheimer in living the country gentleman life. Ward Morehouse and Erskine Gwynne could pass for twins in a dim light.

Rhyme: Lucius Boomer is the Waldorf's head roomer. Dandy names for a pair of goldfish: Nip and Tuck. Rattle of iron swords speech: Floyd Gibbons'. Add theater thrills: When Gallipolis, O., was mentioned right out in "The Easiest Way." And did I give it a cheer!

Harry Silvey, silver-haired boulevardier, had his first brush with royalty lunching with a friend at the Ritz the other day. A countess in passing stopped to speak to Silvey's friend and in turn was presented to Silvey. While accepting the introduction an off ear-ring slipped mooring and plopped into Silvey's goblet of water. He reached for and rescued the bauble and hastily wiping his hands on a napkin beamed: "Pardon my wet cuff, countess!"

Dr. Alfred Adler, the Viennese psychologist who broke from Freud and started a school of his own, was talking about the recognizable earmarks of kindness in people. Once when there were no lodgings to be found in a German town because of conventions, Dr. Adler discovered himself in charge of a young woman who was looking for a room late at night.

A strange man—and formidable looking—approached in the lobby of the hotel. He said he knew a single room that could be engaged and offered to escort the lady there. The psychologist thanked the man but declined the proposal but the girl—herself a student of psychology—asked the stranger his profession. "I am a lion tamer," he said.

The girl was receptive immediately and went along with him confiding to Dr. Adler that animal trainers are the gentlest people in the world. And the master psychologist agreed. Clyde Beatty, for instance, sobs out loud at injured heroines at the movies.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, the author, has a pocket-sized Filipino chauffeur who keeps the imported car as gleaming as his eyes. He has Oriental written all over him and his name is Miguel. So Mrs. Rinehart's sons call him MacGill.

Nocturne: There are silver-gray streaks shimmering the Hudson in the winter moonlight that give thin beauty to the night. Huddled figures in the long line of parked cars symbolize the glamour that holds them in romantic spell.

Riverside in the late evening becomes a lane of lovers from the West 72d street beginning to Washington bridge and beyond. Oh, yes, now and then some intrepid canoeist glides out to ride the glassy swells in wake of a churning side-wheeler.

I get telegrams from Prince Obolensky, the Duke of this and the Baron of that to come to the dining rooms they are sponsoring and make myself at home —at 8 bucks or so a plate. All very royal and tip-top. And likely to make a bourgeois feel quite a one. Yet somehow I wish they would shuck dining out down to plain skillet vittles and grinning waiters of the old steamboat days. The sort who beamed: "How about another helpin', boss?" That was boardin'!

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Love others? Yes! Sympathize with them. Try to understand them. Serve them, constructively, as far as possible. But beware of pitying them—beware of yielding to their demands through pity.

Elsie Robinson

I've seen more lives—particularly women's lives—ruined by pity than by any other form of self-indulgence. Pity—a form of self-indulgence!

Chances are, the idea shocks you. Pity you've been taught to regard as a lovely virtue...an outreaching of noble unselfishness. and sometimes—rarely—it us just that. But generally it is something quite different—an expression of our will-to-power — than which there is nothing more insidiously demoralizing or vicious.

No attitude toward our fellow man can give us more exquisite reactions than pity. Naturally we conclude it is a divine reaction, but the truth is that, nine times out of ten, the thrill comes from flattered vanity rather than spiritual grace.

COSTLY AMUSEMENT

Nothing gives us such a grip over the other fellow's fortune as pity, nor as subtly implies our own superior strength and wisdom. We may be 57 varieties of damnfool in our own dail conduct, but we can always console ourselves by condescending to some even dumber mortal. And what a big bang we get out of Playing God!

It's a costly amusement, however. For the other fellow is seldom as dumb as we think he is. We may fool ourselves with our sanctified role, but not him. He sees through our self-delusion and, frequently, takes full advantage of it. He's willing to act as stooge in our God act, willing to, pour out the adulation self-appointed Gods require, but, bigolly, we'll pay for it. And we do!

Rapidly, from timid modest pleas his demands assume magnificent proportions. At first he is surprised—touched to tears—by our generosity. Presently he considers it his due . . . is shocked and indignant if it is not forthcoming. And always, beneath all surface contacts, there runs an increasing anger and bitterness.

This bitterness amazes us. "Why are people so ungrateful—actually resentful?" we cry. "Why are our efforts to help others so seldom successful?"

The answer is obvious, but our conceit blinds us to it. People are "resentful" because our pity all too often contains thinly veiled contempt. We are so sure that THEY are failures and WE are successes. Nor are we content to offer aid. We insist upon taking over their whole lives and running them for them. Surely they should be pleased!

FORGET PITY

But they aren't pleased! Their lives may seem horrible messes to us, but they like them. Those lives fit their alien spirits—they are comfortable in them — they know their way around. Why should we come along and wreck the whole pattern of their existence just because we have given them an old overcoat, some worn blankets and $3.57 worth of groceries?

Can't we understand that they, too, have their personal pride and self respect? Can't we recognize that they have a right to Be Themselves, just as we have?

But we don't recognize these things. Instead, we PITY them with an insulting condescension. And they accept our charity. But while they do so, they are determined to Get Hunk! Some day they'll be revenged for this affront upon their self-respect! In the meantime, they'll make us pay as dearly as possible for our complacent conceit!

Yes, pity is a pernicious form of self-indulgence. If you wish to help others do so—quietly, decently, as a matter of course—thanking God that you have sufficient abundance for this beautiful and highly civilized gratification. But DON'T try to crash the spotlight with your Lady Bountiful act. Or, sure as God made little apples, someone will give you the gong!

This column welcomes and requests comments. Letters presenting personal problems may also be sent. All letters will be handled confidentially and answered promptly if stamped, addressed envelopes are included.

"Yure's Truely"

By Winston Norman

Paris, France, February 5.

Mr. Roosevelt
White House
U. S. A.
Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

This here is rote from Paris. Have took pen in hand to tell you how lucky you was that you got elected Pres. of the U. S. A. instead of France.

They got the craziest Polatics you ever seen over here, Mr. President. They only had Mr. Blum running France for 8 months, instead of 8 years like you are running America. But they are hopeing to throw him out all-ready, pervided they haven't threw him out before you get this letter.

They do not know what Democrats or Republicans is over here, Mr. Pres. They got so many Politicle Partys that they had to start a thing called the United Front, which means a lot of Partys gettin together to fight with some-body else when they are wore out from fightin each-other.

Now take the thing they call Radicle Sosialists for instince. The name is a liar, because a Radicle Sosialist is a Tory over here, just like a Vermont Republican. Their polaties is on what you call the Right side, which will most likely be the Wrong side when the gun-shooting begins.

France is just like what Caesar said when you & me was boys in school, Mr. Roosevelt. All Gaul is divided into 3 parts, the Left Wing, the Right Wing, and Mr. Blum.

If your name was Mr. Blum instead of Mr. Roosevelt, you would just be the middle of the Politicle sand-witch. You would get ate along with the rest of the sand-witch, as soon as one of the little French partys was big enuff to gulp you down.

Me persnal, I hope I get out of France before the gulping begins. These French folks is been haveing Civil Wars for 150 years now, they get better every time.

As a matter of fack Mr. President, that's why Paris looks so clean & prosperous. Paris is been tore down so many times in Revalutions, & built new again, that it always looks as fresh as a new-born babe.

Yure's truely in Europe,
WINSTON NORMAN.

Fight Narcotic Evil

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

The "thing" was a hypodermic injection of heroin in the leg. The victim took the treatment, became unconscious and his body turned blue. Only heroic work by army doctors saved his life.

The British steamship Maron, entering New York Harbor, was boarded by customs agents, who turned the vessel upside down and by so doing uncovered $76,000 worth of opium. The captain of the ship had advised the authorities that he believed the contraband was aboard. Had the opium been discovered without the assistance of the captain, the ship-owners would have been liable to a fine of $25 an ounce.

Such a levy, to the amount of $5000, was assessed against the owners of the British ship Ruby Castle in 1930. They carried an appeal to the United States District Court which upheld the verdict on December 30th, last. One hundred and ninety-seven pounds of opium had been found in the hollow base of the mast of the Ruby Castle.

"RUM ROW PROBLEM"

It is happenings like these, occurring too frequently, which led Secretary Morganthau to say that the smuggling of narcotics is the "new Rum Row problem." He has added 570 agents to the Treasury division having to do with the suppression of this traffic.

The main trouble spot is the Pacific Coast which came up during the past Summer with a smuggling plot which would have delighted that prince of thrill-writers about dope rings, the late Edgar Wallace.

This story, which outrivals fiction, began when the S. S. Hei Yo Maru put into San Pedro from the Orient. The agents of Uncle Sam were waiting for the ship and particularly for one of the passengers, a young lady of 84 pounds and attractive in a German-Chinese fashion.

The information had come by the mysterious official grapevine that her baggage would be well worth looking into. To all outward appearances the tip was wrong, but the agents did not stop with the outside. They noticed that several trunks were quite heavy, and in the lining of these they came upon 54 pounds of heroin.

Maria Wendt was the fair smuggler's name, and she proved an elusive person. She slipped away from her captors in Los Angeles, boarded a plane and and stepped freely from it in Newark.

PLOTTERS ROUNDED UP

For all of that, Maria was not any too smart. One experience with the customs men should have taught her to take no liberties. But Maria had not learned her lesson. As she placed a dainty foot on the gangplank of the S. S. Deutschland in New York, a firm hand was placed on her shoulder, and Maria began the jaunt back to California.

In the meantime, a native of Poland, Naftali Brandstatter, who had left Shanghai about the same time as Maria Wendt, had been picked up in Cuba and deported to the United States. Maria had implicated him in the plot when arrested in California. Brandstatter hanged himself in a cabin of the liner Oriente the day it reached New York.

To climax the story, cables from China brought the news of the horrible death of Al Stey, an Alsatian chemist. His body was discovered in a clump of bushes outside of Shanghai. He either had taken his own life or had been murdered by having poison forced into his mouth. He was the leader of a smuggling band whose operations ran into millions of dollars yearly. Brandstatter was his lieutenant and Maria Wendt was Brandstatter's dupe.

FIGHT SCOURGE

There is no exaggerating the dangers of the dope traffic. Stuart J. Fuller, of the State Department, speaking at Geneva before the League of Nations Opium Advisory Commission, had this to say:

"I speak of this with feeling because I have been brought to regard this failure (by Japan) to punish these poisoners in Japan and China, not only as an act of unfriendliness to the Chinese but also as an unfriendly act toward the nations of the North American Continent. Let us face the facts. Where Japan's influence advances in the Far East, what goes with it? The dope traffic."

China, saturated with the dope traffic, aims to have it stamped out by the year 1940. It was introduced into China in 1776 by the English. It is doubtful that extermination will have been accomplished within the next four years because of Japanese protection of the growers and traders. The Chinese Nationalists, however, give evidence that they will make a heroic effort to free their country of the scourge.

For the past three years they have been executing pedlars and addicts at the rate of a thousand a year. Now they promise mass executions and as a preliminary are staging public shootings of small bands. One hundred years ago the English fought a war with China to perpetuate the opium trade. The centennial of that conflict may have Japan doing the same thing for the same purpose.

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

The refusal of the United States Supreme Court to review a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals that "the air, like the sea, is by its nature incapable of private ownership, except in so far as one may actually use it," settles a question of vital importance. Any other ruling would have been a death blow to aviation. If it were possible for land owners to make airplane companies pay for the privilege of flying over their property, the cost of flying would be prohibitive.

Individuals cannot own either water or air. They may acquire certain rights to the USE of water, but after they have used it they have no further title. This system of water rights was developed in arid and semi-arid States to insure the maximum and most orderly beneficial use of whatever water may be available. But as air covers the whole earth and is accessible to every person, there is no necessity for granting preferential rights to its use.

Announcement that the administration plans to maintain the Public Works Administration until June 30, 1939, at least, should occasion no surprise. The agency has 294 million dollars left in its revolving fund. Only a child would be credulous enough to expect abandonment of a bureau which still has that amount of money to spend. Congress, voting billions for government spending, cannot be expected to waste any time on the liquidation of an agency that has 294 million dollars. To individual taxpayers, this is a lot of money. But it is only chicken feed to our tax spenders, who have learned to think and spend only in billions.

Speaking of taxes, and especially at this time of year taxes are very much in the public mind as the hand of the tax collector is very much in the taxpayer's purse, here is a statement by the American Petroleum Industries committee which should furnish food for constructive thought:

LABOR IN AUTOMOBILE FACTORIES GETS APPROXIMATELY $100 FOR EACH CAR TURNED OUT, BUT TAX COLLECTORS EXTRACT $400 FROM THE MOTOR VEHICLE DURING ITS LIFETIME ON THE HIGHWAYS.

Sartorial experts in London say that altho the world of fashion lost its most dominating personality thru the abdication of King Edward VIII, King George VI will furnish style leadership. Aping the dress and manners of royalty has been a habit of much of the human race for centuries. It makes no difference whether the fashion arbiter is a colorful and dominant personality or not. Human sheep follow wherever royalty leads, in the matter of dress. When Duke Philip of Burgundy, in 1461, suffered a severe illness which made it necessary for him to have his hair cut short, more than 500 nobles had their hair cut the same way so he would not feel conspicuous.

Basing his prediction on a study of tree rings in Vermont and New Hampshire over a period of 400 years, Dr. Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, tells a congressional committee the next great drouth probably will occur about 1975. He says meteorologists and physicists more and more are accepting the theory "there is in the weather a 23-year, a 46 and a 92-year cycle of events." It seems to be a human trait to try to figure out everything on a mathematical basis.

Every year, when we have a flood or a drouth, or a period of unseasonable heat or cold in any section of the country, people wonder if the climate is changing. Nobody knows. Weather records for only a few hundred years, on an earth which is more than 155 million years old, do not provide a very substantial basis for determining whether changes are temporary or permanent.

Naturally the Federal Communications Commission would like to have its investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company made permanent, to run on forever like Tennyson's brook. It isn't every day that bureaucrats get a chance at such financially fat and juicy prey. The A. T. & T. is big and prosperous and can afford to pay for being investigated perpetually. And there always is a certain amount of political capital in investigating any big utility corporation.
